House Gives Equal Rights Strong Okay

Women's Bill Still Faces Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. D-Miss., the Judiciary chair, Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., 32 and Martha Griffiths is counting on woman power to propel through the Senate and the state legislatures a constitutional amendment guaranteeing women equal rights with men.

"A lot of things have changed," the Michigan Democrat grinned as she savored a 350-15 victory in the House Monday. She had pried the measure from the Judiciary Committee shelf where it had collected dust for 47 years and engineered the floor victory.

But that was only the beginning, she said, pointing to the

Opposing Votes

WASHINGTON AP — Among the 15 congressmen voting Monday against a proposed constitutional amendment concerning equal rights for women were Rep. Glenn R. Davis and Rep. John W. Byrnes, both Wisconsin Republicans.

Some of the amendment's backers have feared the committee's conservatives might hold it up indefinitely.

The Democratic leader said it was even possible the equal rights amendment might be combined with one on direct election of presidents also scheduled for Senate floor debate later this session.

Game of Politics

Other backers are not so optimistic about chances of the amendment. Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., who says she has felt more prejudice as a woman than as a Negro, is fearful that men who run the game of politics still may block the proposal.

She cited, for example, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., 32 and Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., a widow, who sought to have the amendment sent back to committee for more study.

Let's face it, Mr. Celler has been one of the champions for the civil rights of minorities—but he is like other men in feeling women have a different place and there should be definite limitations on them," Mrs. Chisholm said.

Celler Argument

And the galleries, packed with women, weren't buying Celler's argument that "there is as much difference between a male and a female as there is between a horse chestnut and a chestnut horse. Vive la difference."

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has approved a companion measure. Backers

Fears Mount for Guerrilla Captives

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The murder of a kidnapped U.S. official and a new execution threat increased fears today for the lives of Brazilian consul and an American agricultural expert still held by the Tupamaro guerrillas.

A local radio station reported early today that a body had been found near a beachside avenue and possibly was that of the Brazilian diplomat. Police and soldiers searched the area but reported they found no body.

The leftist Tupamaros abducted U.S. police adviser Dan A. Mitrione and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide on July 31 and demanded the release of all political prisoners in Uruguay as ransom. The government refused to deal with the kidnappers, and Mitrione was found shot to death early Monday in an abandoned stolen car.

Last Friday the guerrillas seized another hostage, Claude L. Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo., an American agricultural expert working for the Uruguayan government.

A Uruguayan television station received a note Monday saying the kidnappers would execute Dias Gomide at midnight if the estimated 150 political prisoners were not freed. Government security agencies refused to confirm the authenticity of the note, and the deadline passed with no word from the kidnappers.

The note did not mention Fly. Congress met in special session Monday and approved President Jorge Pacheco Areco's request for suspension of all individual civil rights for 20 days. This gives the police more freedom in their massive search for the kidnappers and their hostages, which already has resulted in the capture of 100 suspects and several top Tupamaro leaders.

The government also broadened press censorship, forbidding newspapers to publish photos related to the Mitrione killing. They are barred from referring to the Tupamaros by name under earlier censorship regulations.

Congress declared Monday a day of mourning for Mitrione, and all businesses and offices were closed. The streets of the capital were deserted Monday night except for heavily armed policemen and soldiers making the search.

After Mitrione's body was found, Dias Gomide's wife made an emotional radio appeal to the government and people of Uruguay. Sobbing, she said the guerrillas had told her in a message to urge the public to gather in front of Government House and demand that the president free the political prisoners.

Proxmire Seeking To Prevent Pleas For Federal Aid

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., sought cosponsors for an amendment to restrict use of the funds requested by the Pentagon.

In letters to their colleagues, the senators said their proposal would make sure the planes are built and employees kept at work without rewarding Lockheed, for what they called mismanagement.

Friends and Neighbors

PAYSON, Utah (AP) — The residents of this small northern Utah town have dusted off the Old West custom of "house-raising" to show their appreciation for a Utah Highway patrolman paralyzed by gunshot wounds last fall.

The majority of Payson's 4,300 residents have donated either money or labor to the construction of a specially equipped, $40,000 home for Charles Warren, said Boyd Anderson, director of the project.

Warren was shot twice in the head last Sept. 2 when he stopped a stolen car. He is now a paraplegic, confined to a wheelchair.

Something Special

"When Chuck was shot, the people of Payson were determined to do something special to show how much they respected and liked him," Anderson said.

"We decided on a new home when we found out that the split-level house Chuck now owns is not well-suited for a paraplegic."

Construction of the four-bedroom home began July 23 and is expected to be completed by mid-September.

It is specially equipped for occupation by a person confined to a wheelchair. It has built-in physical therapy equipment, extra-large bathrooms and bedrooms and enlarged door openings.

Residents contributed enough money to buy a vacant lot. An architect from nearby Provo donated the plans.

Volunteer Help

"It's amazing to see Chuck's friends and neighbors turn out by the tens and twenties each day to help pound nails and lay concrete," said Anderson, an industrial arts high school teacher who is spending full time on the project.

As one volunteer worker helped pour the cement floor of the basement, he commented: "It's just like frontier days everybody pitched in to help build a new home for their neighbors and didn't ask anything in return."

"Several are putting in a few hours before or after their regular jobs," Anderson said, "and some are spending their vacation time here."

Harold Harmer, a Mormon Church lay leader in Payson, said the project has brought the town closer together.

"We wanted to show our appreciation to Chuck for his dedication as a lawman, and we wanted to develop a greater respect for all law officers and what they do for us," Harmer said.

Warren's wife says she and her husband were stunned by the reaction of their fellow townspeople.

"We always have had faith in other people," she says, "but we had no idea that they would do this much for us."

Brandt Flies To Moscow to Sign Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt flew off to Moscow today to sign a treaty with the Soviet Union after his plane was delayed for nearly two hours by a telephone call that a bomb was aboard. No bomb was found.

Ruediger Von Wechmar, government spokesman, said the plane was in takeoff position when "two security guards came from the cockpit and told us that we must disembark because there was a bomb scare."

He reported a man called from a telephone booth and said: "There's a bomb aboard the chancellor's plane. Watch out."

The plane was immediately surrounded by fire engines and police. Airport buses were brought up for the chancellor and his party to take them to a lounge.

"There was no panic. We took it in good humor—there are always nuts around," Von Wechmar said.

Earlier an Interior Ministry spokesman had said the plane had begun rolling down the runway when it was stopped. This was later cleared up when it appeared he meant the plane had rolled to its takeoff position.

Thundershower Possible Tonight

Fox Cities — Partly cloudy with little temperature change and thundershowers possible tonight and Wednesday. Low tonight 60, high Wednesday near 85. Wind light and variable. Precipitation probability 20 per cent tonight and Wednesday.

Appleton — Observations at 9:30 a.m. for the preceding 24 hours: high 86, low 66. Barometer 30.22 and steady. Wind calm. Humidity 78 per cent. Dew point 67. Skies overcast. No precipitation. Sunset today at 8:05 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow at 5:53 a.m.

Student Predictions More Campus Activism Seen

By GALE TOLLIN
Associated Press Writer

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The president of the National Student Association predicted today the coming academic year will see an increase in campus activism, "much tougher and much more locally centered."

Charles Palmer said in an interview he couldn't anticipate the specific patterns of increased student protest. But he said he was sure much effort would be directed against the Vietnam war, racism, pollution and corporations which manufacture war goods or contribute to contamination of the environment.

U.S. military involvement in Cambodia this year made college people "a little harder, a little tougher, a little more cynical about the responsiveness of the political system, a little more cynical about how the political protester is dealt with in this country," said Palmer, of East Los Angeles, Calif.

Redouble Activism

"Next year will see a redoubling of activism," said the 23-year old graduate of the University of California at Berkeley. The NSA is holding its annual congress here.

The NSA says it has chapters on 500 college and university campuses and claims to be the nation's largest student organization. Its membership is counted by chapter, rather than by student.

"The exact thrusts depend upon what happens externally," Palmer said. "Lest we become reactionary, we'll have to respond to what the President and other people are doing."

But he said there is bound to be activity against government, and it may include some directed at state governments, at mayors and at campus administrations. It will all depend upon what issues arise, Palmer said.

Spread the Word

Without recommending any cooling of campus activism, Palmer said the time has come for students to go to their home communities and elsewhere to spread word of what they've been doing. The generation gap is widening, he said, and communication is important.

years is how to build and broaden their base, how to get out to other people, how to understand what other people are doing and how to make understood what student interests are."

Palmer said students have tremendous problems understanding and being sensitive to the problems of most working people.

"Most students have been away from home for a while," he said. "They don't know about the insecurity of being laid off."

$1 Million Stolen in Mail Robbery

QUEBEC (AP) — Five armed men entered Ancienne Lorette airport early today and escaped with 23 mail bags that police said may contain more than $1 million.

The masked men arrived at the airport about 7 a.m. in two automobiles and entered an area where the mail bags were being held for pickup by a Brink's Express Co. truck.

Police said the Brink's truck was delayed when the bandits fired on it before it reached the airport, shooting one of its tires flat.

Lt. Bernard Grenier, of the provincial police armed robbery squad, said 50 mail bags had been unloaded from Air Canada flight 350 from Montreal.

Of these, 23 contained money and securities which Grenier said could be worth more than $1 million.

Palmer also had these observations:

Responsive to Students

Forget Humphrey for '72, Lucey Backers Told

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey can be ruled out as a 1971 presidential contender, Harvard University economist John Kenneth Galbraith said Monday night.

Humphrey, he said, is still saddled with an image associated with the Johnson administration's Vietnam policies, and the Democratic party "won't be forgiven soon for the Vietnam war unless there is a change in policy."

Democrats should work instead for a regeneration of their party and aim their campaign efforts at the "fellow travelers in a speech to about 700 persons, mostly students, at the University of Wisconsin.

The former U.S. ambassador to India and economic adviser to President Kennedy was heckled occasionally, but an antiwar coed who tried to shout at him was at last drowned out by applause from the annoyed audience.

Supports Lucey

Galbraith spoke in support of former Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor and an associate during the Kennedy era.

Lucey's chief challenger for the nomination is Donald O. Peterson of Eau Claire, with whom Galbraith and Lucey worked in 1968 during the presidential campaign of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn.

Galbraith said he could also endorse Peterson, a founder of the reform-conscious New Democratic Coalition. "I'll come out and campaign for him" should Peterson win the Sept. 8 primary, Galbraith remarked.

Galbraith's Madison appearance came 24 hours after McCarthy spoke in Milwaukee in behalf of Peterson. McCarthy had said he would endorse Lucey, should Lucey win the primary.

Galbraith aimed much of his speech at the Nixon administration and the President's actions in Vietnam.

Bad as LBJ

Nixon's decision to invade Cambodia "was fraudulent and inadequate," he said, showing Nixon, "in his own way, can do as badly as Johnson."

U.S. military roles in Southeast Asia have been misguided, he said. "If the jungle chooses to call itself communist, it is still a jungle."

Galbraith said he cannot endorse student demands for a two-week moratorium on college academic activities prior to the November election to allow students to participate in campaigns, calling it too late in the electoral season to be useful.

"As Pat Lucey would tell you, it is too late," he said.

The heckling was the work of but a few members of the generally youthful audience, and Galbraith remarked about his being a member of an older generation although "sympathetic" to student sentiments.

Explaining there would be a question and answer session, he replied to one instance of heckling with: "I'm going to allow some time at the end of my speech to be denounced."

Plamann Park Land Plan Is Being Rushed

A revised Outdoor Recreation Plan for Outagamie County was to be presented to the Outagamie County Board this afternoon in a fight against time to qualify for federal funds for the acquisition of a 143-acre addition to Plamann Park.

The revised plan was presented to the board's Parks and Recreation Committee Monday night by the Northeastern Regional Planning Commission but committee members still were not satisfied with the results and asked for further revisions before this afternoon.

The original plan was rejected by the state as being incomplete and unacceptable. Until the state approves the plan, the county is not eligible for land and water conservation act (LAWCON) funds.

The county hopes to obtain up to $75,000 in LAWCON funds for the purchase of the property but the options on the property expire before the end of the year.

Lead Paint Poisoning Takes a Toll in U.S.

WASHINGTON — Compared to other hazards in today's world, lead paint poisoning is not important.

It accounts for only about 100 of the 30,000 accidental deaths from household products each year in this country and only a few thousand of the 20 million injuries attributed to household products by the National Commission on Product Safety.

But the deaths and injuries occur almost entirely to children under the age of 6, and many of those who survive are sentenced to a life of silent suffering from brain damage caused by eating peeling paint.

Even more tragic is the fact that almost all of these deaths and injuries could be avoided.

According to testimony presented at recent House hearings here, nontoxic substitutes are now available to do the job that lead has usually done: Add weather resistance and durability for covering metal surfaces.

One example is titanium dioxide, an ingredient in paint used for priming surfaces and covering such things as porch railings.

Most of the trouble with lead paint comes from pre-World War II paint that has begun to chip and peel. Some of this paint has as much as 60 per cent lead content. It doesn't take much to cause lead poisoning in a child.

Most of the victims are found in slum neighborhoods where housing is dilapidated. But cases have been reported in all types of neighborhoods, according to the product safety commission.

Over the years, the lead content of paint has dropped. A voluntary industry standard limits it now to one per cent. But a survey by the commission in Washington area stores showed some paints with proportions of lead far above the voluntary standard.

Examples cited at the House hearings were Du Pont spray paint, with 9.64 per cent lead, and Wizard automobile enamel spray, with 3.82 per cent.

Most labels contain warnings against use on items that are accessible to children and against prolonged exposure to paint fumes. But few of these warnings are strong enough or prominent enough on the label, according to William V. White, executive director of the safety commission.

He said the type is often too small and is frequently hidden in a corner of the label where it is not likely to be read. He said that one can carry a warning on the rear label and a picture of a child on the front.

His recommendations included a mandatory federal safety standard barring the use of lead except for industrial purposes such as preventing rust on bridges. He said the government already has the authority to require a strong and prominent safety warning on labels.

Disclosure of lead content is required by law in only a few cities and states.

White also suggested that all lead paint accessible to children be sealed, covered or removed. Merely painting over it will not prevent future peeling of the lead portion.

One economical and relatively simple method is to apply drywall. A more expensive and difficult way is to cover with urethane foam. Both methods are effective provided that surfaces are scraped and sealed first.

Outagamie Authorities Issue Statewide Alert For Escaped Prisoner

Outagamie County authorities have issued a statewide alert for a Huber law prisoner who failed to return to the county jail Sunday night.

The runaway is Thomas Broderick, 29, who was serving a year for issuing worthless checks. When last seen, the Eureka native was wearing a green work shirt and trousers.

Authorities believe Broderick may be driving a white and green 1965 Ford Econoline truck stolen Sunday night from the Calumet County firm where he worked.

Broderick is 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighs about 180 pounds and has hazel eyes and brown hair.

Warn Against Overbuilding

Massive Building Program Needed to Handle Peak University Enrollment

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — It will cost more than $100 million in new construction to provide space for additional students expected in Wisconsin's two university systems before enrollment peaks in the late 1970s is current facility standards are followed, the State Building Commission has been told.

To provide school room and other space needed by 178,000 students expected at the systems' high points in the late 1970s and early 1980s will require new construction equal to twice the size of the current University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee campus, the university affairs subcommittee of the commission has been warned.

Cost of providing for that bulge — up from the 135,000 students now on the campuses and the 149,000 students expected in 1988 because of recent declined birth rates — could well top $100 million, says Roger Schrantz, head of state planning.

Meet Resistance
Alternatives suggested by Schrantz as possible means to avoid such building costs have met with resistance from educational administrators, however, who suggest that at least some of his answers are not answers at all.

Schrantz suggested ways to avoid higher future construction costs:

- Selective construction of new facilities, building only schools to meet their academic missions or to fill specific needs not filled in any other fashion.
- More intensive educational use of facilities by altering established guidelines for space and usage laid down by the Coordinating Council for Higher Education.
- Expanded use of leased facilities.
- Continued use of obsolescent facilities, through use beyond normal life span and continued repair and remodeling.
- Construction of low-cost, temporary facilities.
- Expanded use of modern technology, such as educational television.
- Efficient utilization of existing space by redesign of current quarters.

Proposal Hit
David Head, associate director of the CCHE for facilities planning, attacked the idea of altering guidelines to meet financial needs.

The guidelines set down by the CCHE are not fixed demands for space, but merely measurements of how well the state is doing in meeting ideal needs, he said.

He termed changing guidelines to fit such needs an "excuse."

Wallace Lemon, a UW vice president for facilities, said most schools in the state do not even meet the guidelines set by the CCHE in most categories, and have less space, facilities and resources per student than called for.

Schrantz admitted that the CCHE guidelines in several categories are among the most demanding in the nation, but suggested that greater utilization of space could be required.

Head said that national studies have indicated that to go much beyond the Wisconsin guidelines level in space utilization results in increased costs, not savings. Greater operating budgets are required to run institutions at that level, he said, and overcome facility savings.

Lemon said that the UW, after being pushed by its regents to move away from leased and rental quarters because of high costs, is moving back in that direction to avoid high construction costs.

Head warned that delayed construction of buildings eventually needed when enrollments start to climb again with rising populations in the 1990's may result in no savings at all because of inflationary trends.

The legislature has authorized an educational television system, but has consistently refused attempts to fund it.

Schrantz proposed that general policies for building for the coming decade be set soon, based on analyses by the systems of program and space needs.

2 Hurt in Crash Near Greenville

GREENVILLE — Two persons were taken to New London Community Hospital Saturday afternoon after they were hurt in a head-on crash on U. S. 10, about seven miles west of Appleton.

Outagamie County traffic officers said an eastbound car driven by Silas A. Korth Jr., 29, route 2, Black Creek, was struck head-on by an auto driven by Patricia R. Wegner, 21, of New London, when Wegner, heading west, crossed over the center line to pass another car.

Wegner suffered only minor injuries, while a passenger, David G. Haase, 20, route 1, Weyauwega, sustained head cuts. Korth was not injured. Damage to the cars totaled $2,400.

Menasha Youth Gets 6-Month Sentence for Driving Without License

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer Monday sentenced a route 1, Menasha, youth to six months in the county jail for driving after his license had been revoked.

Schaefer, who ordered the term for Jerome Nettekoven, 18, noted it was the youth's fourth conviction on the same charge in a year. He granted Huber law privileges.

Nettekoven, who pleaded guilty to the count in County Court Branch 2, was charged Sunday by Little Chute police after being stopped at Main and Hietpas streets. His license was revoked for another year.

Martin Rips New UW Attempt for TV Funds

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The State Building Commission should not allocate any more money for the repair of WHA-TV on the University of Wisconsin campus here and the school should stop "chipping away" at it, says State Rep. David O. Martin, R-Neenah.

Martin, chairman of an influential subcommittee of the building agency, blasted back at the UW after a school official renewed the system's attempt to free more than $218,000 for a new antenna and transmission system for the problem-prone station.

Martin refused to consider the matter and said that he will again recommend to the commission that the school's attempt be rejected and that state law be followed.

Martin and the UW have been feuding over the school's request for $648,000 for a new transmitter, antenna and tower for the UW station.

Not Identified
The UW won the funds in the 1969-71 budget, but failed to identify the purpose for which the money was to be spent. A provision of the budget law forbids spending more than $250,000 on projects not identified in the budget.

The attorney general has said that the definition of the word "project" is up to the building commission.

Martin finally agreed to allowing the school more than $240,000 for a new transmitter it said it had to have to keep the station on the air, as it faced imminent breakdown.

Martin reminded Wallace Lemon, a UW vice president in charge of building projects, that the UW proposed that division in the project after first claiming that the project was a single job, which could not be divided.

After finding out about the commission roadblock, the UW is claiming that the WHA proposal represents three separate projects, said Martin.

He relented on the transmitter because of the claim of impending failure, but will not on the other two steps without letting the 1971 Legislature vote on the proposals, he said.

Lemon termed the budget mixup an "error" and said that he was "pleading" with Martin's university affairs subcommittee to recommend the funds be freed for the $218,000 antenna.

The commission took care of what the UW said was "the most critical need" of WHA-TV without breaking state laws, replied Martin.

"My position is still the same that additional funds should be voted for the balance of the project by the 1971 session of the legislature," he said.

Commission secretary Gerald Emmer then said that the antenna proposal and the tower request were interlocking because the weight of the new antenna could not be supported on the existing tower and a new structure would be required if

Tavern Keeper Fined For Allowing Loitering
An Outagamie County tavern keeper who permitted two 17-year-old boys to loiter in his bar June 14, was fined $50 and costs Monday afternoon by County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Veto Klimoski, Seymour, the owner of that village's VFW Club, changed his plea to guilty Monday. A trial previously had been set for him when he entered an innocent plea.

The request was approved.

Lemon then asked that about $30,000 in equipment connected with the antenna purchase but not dependent on the size of the tower be backed by Martin's committee.

"We're really stretching this out much further than we have to and I can see no reason to continue chipping away at what was the clear expressed intent of the Legislature," in writing the $250,000 limitation, Martin told Lemon.

"As far as I am concerned we have provided the funds to take care of the most critical and pressing needs," he said.

Feminist Drenched in Ale In Bar's First Coed Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — McSorley's Old Ale House opened its doors to women for the first time in its 116-year history Monday. Less than two hours later an irate male patron argued with a leader of the women's liberation movement and poured a stein of ale over her head.

The venerable tavern in the East Village was bowing to a new city law prohibiting discrimination in public places on grounds of sex.

Proprietor Daniel Kirwan wrote in a musty ledger, "God bless us all on this occasion," then escorted two neighborhood shopowners into the saw-dust strewn sanctum for the tradition-shattering first glass. They did not stay long but other women took their place.

The male customers greeted the change glumly—especially when the vice president of the National Organization for Women entered in a purple jump suit, sandals and sunglasses.

Lucy Komisar, the NOW officer, became involved in an argument with a group of young men. When tempers flared one man poured his stein of ale over her head, precipitating the bar's first coed fight.

"They're really boorish, horrible men and I don't think I'd want to have anything to do with them," she said later, drenched but still smiling.

"They're lower-class men who have a lot of problems with their masculinity."

Matt Maher, the night manager, apologized for the incident.

"We usually never tolerate that type," he said of the group yelling at Miss Komisar. "I'm afraid it will be this way for a few days. They're a little upset, you see."

Role of Nurse To be Discussed

Oshkosh State University will offer a two-credit course, "Nursing Process in the Community," from 7 to 8:40 p.m. Wednesdays this fall. The course, taught through the School of Nursing, will include the extended role of the nurse, the health care system, the health care crisis, proposals for responding to the health care crisis, major health problems and approaches to health.

The credits are applicable toward a baccalaureate degree in nursing at the university. No formal application need be filed. Interested persons may register between 7 and 9 p.m. Sept. 8 and 9 in Clow Social Science Center.

Toasting The End of a 116-year-old tradition, barring women, patrons at McSorley's Old Ale House in New York City gallantly lift their steins to the fair sex. With them is Elaine Everett, one of a handful of young women who entered the premises shortly after a new New York City law was passed, prohibiting discrimination on the grounds of sex. (AP Wirephoto)

Garden Variety Poisons Dangerously Prevalent

NEW YORK — When preparing your family's next crisp, green summer salad, don't toss in any of those pretty rhubarb leaves. They're poisonous, and many people have died from eating them.

Although a stalk of rhubarb is harmless, its leaf is an example of hundreds of plants common to home, garden and field known to be dangerous to man. However, most of the 13,000 persons stricken by plant poisoning last year did not know that the plants they had eaten were upsetting, let alone lethal.

According to an article in the August issue of "Family Health" magazine, this is not surprising. Even some professional gardeners are not aware that there is danger in the taste of the wisteria, poinsettia and the rhododendron; nor do they know that eating sufficient amounts of mistletoe can cause death, says the article.

Common Plants Guilty

All poisonous plants are not exotic; many of them are quite common and near at hand, warns the magazine. For example, acorns can harm the kidneys, and pretty lily-of-the-valley is violently toxic if ingested. Hazardous house plants include the bulbs of hyacinth, daffodil, glory lily and the amaryllis.

Complicating the poison problem is the fact that many dangerous wild plants resemble those cultivated in the garden. Water Hemlock is often mistaken for parsnip. And the death-dealing wild cherry looks like the harmless domestic variety one buys at the corner fruit stand.

Astonishing as it may sound, even eating certain parts of everyday fruits and vegetables may be disastrous. "Family Health" reports an apple a day may keep the doctor away, but not if you eat its seeds. Apple seeds in large quantity are potentially dangerous; so are peach leaves.

Look Out for Foliage

The tomato and potato are harmless, but eating the foliage and vines of both can cause violent digestive upset such as stomach pain, vomiting, diarrhea, muscle weakness and sometimes death.

In addition, the odors of some plants can be harmful to susceptible individuals. Flowers of wisteria, magnolia and wild cherry can bring on headache and a sense of depression. And strangely enough, the honey from some flowers is also poisonous. These include the lily-of-the-valley, mountain laurel, the azalea and the rhododendron.

The greatest betrayer is the wild mushroom. It is responsible for approximately half the annual deaths from plant poisoning. Few people can distinguish a poison variety from an edible one.

Call Doctor

Plant poisoning symptoms range from a deep sleep to a plain headache, vomiting or convulsion. However, avoid all guesswork and call a doctor immediately. If a physician cannot be reached, then phone the Poison Control Center. Remember to keep the whole plant so that the type of poison can be identified.

Above all, do not attempt to use home remedies, "Family

Health" advises. The toxic properties of poisonous plants result from different organic compounds, such as alkaloids, glucosides, resinoids or acids, and the antidotes may be as dangerous as the poisons themselves when administered by an unskilled person.

Cheese Facts

Cheese can be a luxury or an economical food depending on which cheese you choose, how it is packaged and how much you buy. Aged or sharp natural cheese usually costs more than mild cheese; imported often costs more than domestic and cubed or grated cheese may cost more than wedges or sticks.

Chaminade Chorus Has Summer Outing

KAUKAUNA — Members of Chaminade Women's Chorus and their husbands gathered Saturday evening at Riverside Park for a picnic supper complete with all the trimmings. Each chorus section brought a different type of dish — a salad, a hot dish or a dessert — to add to the meat and beverages purchased by the committee. Serving in that capacity were Mrs. Paul Killian and Mrs. James Andersen.

Games were played with traveling prizes adding to the excitement of each game. Of course, there was a group sing and this time Mrs. Jerold Finch accompanied the group with her accordion.

There Was Time to play games during the Chaminade outing at Riverside Park. Above, Jerold Finch, Mrs. James Andersen and Jim Brown work as a team during a game of volleyball.

What's So Neat About Being the 'Baby'

BY ERMA BOMBECK Our older children vow they want to come into this world as the "baby of the family."

The New Miss Black Wisconsin is Miss Alicia Gittens, 20, a coed at Carroll College. Waukesha. Above, she poses with the trophy and roses after winning the title in weekend competition in Milwaukee. From Trinidad, she is to become a U.S. citizen next Saturday. She'll represent Wisconsin Aug. 28 in the Miss Black America Pageant in New York. (AP Wirephoto)

In their words, "He never gets yelled at, stays up through sermonette, has permanent status by the car window and can grow up as rotten as he wants to."

I view the "baby" as a rather sad figure. He wears what he grows into, he is outside of whatever age group is inside and he's probably smothered by parents who see in him their fading youth or ignored by parents who figure all you need to grow is time.

More sadly, whatever he does has been done before. . . better, faster and with the sound of trumpets.

"What do you want for your birthday?" I asked our youngest the other day.

"I'd like to have one of those nets where you bounce a baseball against it and it pops back for batting practice."

"We had one of those," yawned his older brother. "You were a little kid then and wrecked it up."

"How about some of those weights that you lift to build your muscles?"

"You can have mine," said another brother. "They're laying in the bottom of my closet gathering dust."

"Your muscles?"

"No, the weights!"

"A chemistry set would be nice," he mused.

"I saw one of those in the attic," said his father. "Scrub it up and it'll be like new."

"Could I have a new bike?" he asked. "I've outgrown my small one."

"I've outgrown my small one, too," said his sister. "Take mine."

"But it's a girl's bike," he said.

"So wear a dress and no one will notice," she said.

"What about an aquarium?" he smiled.

"What about it," I charged, "I always end up cleaning the tank and feeding the fish. Forget it."

"A guitar maybe?"

"I'm not ready for two more months of 'On Top of Old Smokey.' I can't imagine what we want with another guitar around here."

I looked at him trying to see beyond the disappointment. Last born, last to take

Sneezing More Sleeping Less?
If you're sneezing more and sleeping less, you may be a victim of hay fever. According to a physician on the staff of the University of Philadelphia Medical School, the distressing symptoms of hay fever, which often resemble those of a cold, can affect a person's general health. Loss of appetite and sleep, inflammation of eyes, ears, sinuses, throat or bronchial tubes may occur. The victim is advised to see a doctor. Medications to relieve the symptoms include eye or nose drops, sprays or pills. A decongestant nasal spray combined with an antihistamine is often recommended to relieve the itching, sneezing and nasal stuffiness. Many different medications may have to be tried before doctor and patient discover the right one. The Philadelphia physician suggests that hay fever attacks may be caused completely by the "dander" of a patient's cat or dog. Unfortunately, the only remedy then, is to find another home for the pet. Distressing as this may be, remember that others are in an even worse fix. These persons have been discovered to be allergic to their husbands, or wives!

Your Problems

Sleepwalking Episode Not A Usual One

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Are you sure sleepwalkers never do anything they wouldn't do while awake? I disagree. I read an article by Isabella Taves condensed from "Today's Health" about a 14-year-old boy who rose from his bunk still asleep, looked in the refrigerator and then walked out the back door. It would have been just another sleepwalking episode — except the boy was in a camper-truck, traveling at 50 miles an hour on the San Diego Freeway.

The article warned against a wakening a sleepwalker abruptly. One must never seize a sleepwalker and shake him awake. It is best to repeat his name calmly, until it penetrates his consciousness, then help him realize where he is and let him know he is safe.

Parents of sleepwalking children should take obvious precautions by fastening gates at the head of stairs and locking doors that lead to the outside.

The article quoted Dr. Roger Broughton, an Ottawa neurologist and authority on somnambulism, as saying it does no good to discourage sleepwalking by such primitive means as surrounding a child's bed with pans of cold water so he will step into them and wake up. A letter in your column suggested just this method. Please correct this misstatement. — Rochester, Minnesota.

Dear Roch: For most theories there are counter theories. Most authorities on somnambulism say the vast majority of sleepwalkers do nothing out of character in their sleep. The boy who walked out of the back door of the camper was not deviating from his normal behavior pattern. Unfortunately, that particular "bedroom" was not the one he was accustomed to.

Many readers wrote to tell me they used the water pan method with great success. It did not cure the sleepwalker, but it did awaken him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband (age 34) put on his summer tux yesterday for the first time in four years. He looked like a stuffed sausage. He couldn't even button his shirt collar.

Buck has a desk job and never does one thing for exercise — except bend his elbow. When I suggested that he take up bowling or tennis or golf or swimming he pointed out that a great many star athletes die young because they exercised too much and it was bad for the heart. Buck cited several examples and I had to admit he made a pretty good case. Do you have any thoughts on the subject? — Dumb Dora

Dear Dora: More men die from overeating and overdrinking than from overexercising.

A man who is not accustomed to physical exertion should not suddenly take up tennis or handball in his middle years. He should start with mild exercises and work up gradually to more strenuous activity. Urge your stuffed sausage to see a doctor. He needs to be put on a diet and learn what kind and how much exercise he should have.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a 26-year-old who has $30,000 worth of education including a master's degree, and after 18 months on Wall Street decides money is garbage, business is phony and he wants to be a mailman? — His Parents

Dear Parents: To each his zone.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Peterson Questions Midi Campaign

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The attorney general ought to investigate a possibility of monopolistic practices among garment manufacturers who have created "an artificial market" for the midi skirt, Donald O. Peterson said Monday.

Peterson, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said women who want to preserve the value of their miniskirt wardrobes had asked him to take a political stand on the fashion industry's new promotion of the midi.

"The mini-maxi controversy is a valid political issue, since it is the consumer's pocket-book which is suffering the whims of the clothing industry's change-of-style games," Peterson said in a statement.

"The midi promotion might be justified if manufacturers intended to continue making the mini, he said. "But most manufacturers of women's clothing seem bent on discontinuing the mini-style," forcing women to buy new, longer outfits.

"The attorney general should investigate the possibility of restraint of trade, he declared.

"When the consuming public demands one item, and manufacturers produce en masse a completely opposite item, then the only plausible justification for this changeover would seem to be an organized effort to create an artificial market," Peterson challenged.

"With the present state of the economy at a declining level, and with the tightness of money, it is poor judgment to talk of new wardrobes without talking about inflation and rising costs," he said.

Solo Parents Plan Workshop

Fox Valley Solo Parents Club will meet for a discussion workshop at 8:30 p.m. today at the home of Mrs. Rose Haag, 425 S. Arlington St.

Rounding out the month's activities will be a family style fish fry scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 21 at The Forester and a visit to the Railroad Museum at Green Bay at 1 p.m. Aug. 23. Reservations for the fish fry are to be made before Aug. 18 with Mrs. Sylvia Van Asten, 125 E. Orange St.

A corn roast will head the program for September. Members will meet at 8 p.m. Sept. 5 at the Neenah YWCA and go as a group for the event at Cory Prindle's cottage at Lake Poygan.

Owing to the Y's schedule, the group's monthly business meeting will be Sept. 8.

THE ACES

A favorite diversion of bridge players is to dream up a nightmare hand and then wish it upon their worst enemy. Bobby Wolff of The Aces had just such a dream recently. He sat his arch-enemy in the South seat while he was holding the East hand, trying hard to suppress an evil grin.

 Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

In Wolff's dream he made North-South vulnerable so South would feel worse after he finished the hand. Furthermore, he gave him a hand that he could never forget.

The bidding was direct, and South quickly contracted for a small slam in spades.

Wolff, of course, knew what everyone had, so he did not double for a club lead. He knew that a club ruff would spoil his diabolical plans. After a club ruff, declarer would have no choice but to win any return and lay down the ace of spades and, when the remaining spades obligingly fell, declarer would then be able to discard his losing heart on the jack of clubs.

Oh, no, Wolff was too smart for that. Instead, he had his partner lead the jack of hearts — this was his dream wasn't it? When the queen was played from dummy, Wolff played small! (If he covered, declarer, having no dummy entry, would be forced to make seven by plunking down the ace of spades.)

Declarer was overcome with this good fortune. West had apparently led away from the king of hearts, giving dummy an otherwise impossible entry. The entry to the dummy now made it possible for declarer to make a safety play in spades. Declarer was a good enough player to realize that the only way he could go down after the queen of hearts held the trick was if East had K-J-2 of spades and declarer failed to finesse.

So naturally declarer led a trump from dummy. Wolff played low — ever so cunningly low — and declarer finessed the queen. West pounced upon this trick and returned a club, which Wolff trumped.

Now Wolff laughed and laughed — so hard that South came at him with murder in his heart. But it was too late. Wolff woke up before any harm could befall him. And, oh, how he enjoyed that dream!

Those of us who have played the game seriously for some time have encountered such nightmares. Bridge is a game that can cause many nightmares. The laws of chance sometimes seem to be purposely directed against us.

One of the secrets to winning bridge is to remain philosophical throughout your nightmare periods. Like the winning golfer who must play each shot individually, the winning bridge player does not allow an occasional nightmare to affect the other deals left to play.

The Ailing House Spray Door To Cover Scratches

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: A few months ago, I sprayed a dark finish on my doors and several scratches and a few dull spots have appeared, the latter not too conspicuous. What is the easiest repair? — Milwaukee

A: There are at least two choices. I'd vote for simply spraying with more of the same. If the repair shows up, then take a couple more minutes and do the whole side of the door. Or get a scratch-repairing crayon or stick at any furniture store, if you can get a good color match. Rub this in the scratches and they'll disappear.

Q: As a summer project, hopefully to bring in some extra winter income, I would like to try building various types of bird feeders. Where can I find plans or books? — Worcester

A: Write National Audubon Society, 1130 Fifth Ave., New York City 10028. They can send you where-to-get-it information, or sell you a copy of the Audubon magazine, which has many ads. Have you tried your public library?

Q: We had a fireplace built a few months ago, of red brick. It looked very nice, and worked very well. But in a short time several areas of the brick became spotted with white. What causes this? — Columbus

A: The name is efflorescence, and is caused by free lime inside the brick working its way to the surface. When it reaches the surface, the water evaporates, leaving the white deposit. In time this will disappear. Or you can scrub with a muriatic solution: 1 part acid, 5 parts water. Leave it on 15 minutes, then rinse off. Protect your skin and eyes against this strong acid.

N. Vietnamese Massing to Attack South

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B-52 bombers attempted today to scatter North Vietnamese troops reported massing for an attack on a South Vietnamese artillery and patrol base near the northwest frontier with Laos.

Twenty of the big bombers unloaded 600 tons of bombs on enemy bunkers, base camps and staging areas within three miles of Fire Base O'Reilly, one of five allied bases set up in the area to block an enemy advance into the populous coastal lowlands 20 miles to the east. Tactical fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships flew through anti-aircraft fire to pound North Vietnamese positions closer to the base.

Associated Press correspondent Willis Johnson reported from O'Reilly that despite the heavy air strikes, enemy gunners were still firing mortars into the base.

North Vietnamese infantrymen struck a few hours before dawn with machine guns, grenades and flame throwers, attacking government troops in night bivouac half a mile south of the base. Maj. Nguyen Van, commander of the base, said 15 North Vietnamese and one South Vietnamese were killed and four government troops were wounded.

Officers said at least seven South Vietnamese have been killed and 45 wounded in three days of fighting around O'Reilly. Most of them were in patrols operating from the base.

Regimental Commander
The regimental commander, Col. Nguyen Van Diem, estimated more than 200 enemy killed by air and artillery in the three days of fighting, and said about 50 more had been killed by South Vietnamese infantrymen.

A sixth base, Ripcord, was abandoned by paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division last July 23 after North Vietnamese troops killed 61 paratroopers and wounded 345 in a three-week siege.

O'Reilly, a former 101st Airborne base reopened by the

Actors Study New Codes of Sex, Nudity

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Screen Actors Guild says performers may need a code of conduct so they won't be left unprotected in dealing with movie sex and nudity.

The Guild said Monday research committees here and in New York will submit reports that may be the bases of talks with producers to establish a code.

The committees will study such matters as closing sets to outsiders for certain scenes, the use of still pictures taken while filming, and the need for filmmakers to tell actors sex-nudity requirements before they are hired.

Cambodian Raids Doubled

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. fighter bombers and gun ships have doubled the number of air strikes against enemy targets in Cambodia this month, Pentagon sources said in confirming reports of stepped up U.S. air attacks.

Since Aug. 1, the sources said, U.S. warplanes have flown an average of 50 attack sorties a day against enemy troops and supplies throughout Cambodia as compared to a daily average of 24 during July.

A sortie is one flight by one plane.

In addition, there have been an undisclosed number of photo-reconnaissance flights.

The sources gave no reason for the sharp increase in U.S. air raids which coincided with a step-up in ground fighting between the Cambodians and communist forces.

Eyewitness Reports
Eyewitness reports from American newsmen say U.S. planes, loaded with napalm and conventional bombs, are being used to provide direct combat air support for beleaguered Cambodian troops.

The Nixon administration has repeatedly denied giving close air support to the Cambodians. In its latest policy statement Monday, the Pentagon declared, "the President's policy on air operations in Cambodia is that we will conduct operations to interdict enemy supplies, communications and personnel when such operations will enhance the safety and security of U.S. allied personnel in South Vietnam."

The statement acknowledged, however, that "these operations may also have a dual benefit that may serve our purposes and at the same time serve the Cambodian government."

The sharp increase in ground fighting in the past week was marked with a corresponding increase in U.S. air attacks, reaching a high of 90 sorties on Aug. 7—about the same time Cambodian troops were engaged in fierce fighting around the cities of Skoun and Kompong Thom.

During July, according to sources, U.S. war planes never flew more than 45 sorties on any one day. On some days, less than ten were flown.

The level of U.S. air attacks remains far below that mounted in May and June when American and South Vietnamese infantrymen were cleaning out enemy sanctuary areas along the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border.

U.S. fighter bombers and high-flying B-52s made more than 5,400 individual attacks during May while photo planes flew almost 800 sorties in the first month of the drive into Cambodia.

Air activity slackened considerably in June as the operation neared its end. There were about 3600 attack sorties and more than 400 reconnaissance flights over Cambodia that month.

Army Announces Command Shifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Ralph E. Haines Jr. has been named commanding general of the Continental Army Command.

The 56-year-old native of Fort Mott, N.J., will succeed Gen. James K. Woolnough, who will retire, the Army said Monday.

Haines will be replaced as commander-in-chief, U.S. Army, Pacific, by Gen. William B. Rosson, deputy commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. Rosson's post will be taken by Lt. Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, who has been nominated for his fourth star.

Smut Test Infuriates Lawmaker

Nerve Gas Train Starts Through South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two trains carrying nerve gas described by an Army spokesman as "no more dangerous than a load of coal," moved across Southern states today on their slow trips to the sea.

The Army's plans to dump the gas in the Atlantic 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla., apparently faced a court challenge from that state.

"We are going to sue the Army tomorrow," Nathaniel P. Reed, chairman of Florida's Air and Water Pollution Control Board, said Monday night.

The 418 concrete and steel jacketed vaults of nerve gas rockets left Monday from Army depots at Richmond, Ky., and Anniston, Ala. for Sunny Point, N.C. Later in the week the Army plans to load the vaults aboard a barge, tow it to sea and scuttle it.

The train from Anniston reached Athens, Ga., shortly after 6 a.m. and was switched from Central of Georgia tracks to those of the Seaboard Coastline. State patrolmen and city police blocked intersections as the train went through the north Georgia city. Only a few spectators were up at the early hour.

Col. S. M. Burney, commander of the Anniston depot, said the vaults are "safer than coal because a coal train can wreck and this one can't."

Residents of many Georgia communities through which the train from Anniston passed, Monday seemed to share the Army's confidence.

Woman Rams Gunboat With Car, Stays Afloat
PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — Margaret Mejia rammed a navy gunboat with her car.

Mrs. Mejia, 58, lost control of the car Monday and ran over a dockside curb. Navy officials said. The auto's front wheels landed on the bow of the USS Tacoma and had to be lifted off by a crane. Mrs. Mejia escaped injury.

revolting, and said he would have subpoenaed Drs. James L. Howard, Clifford S. Reiffer and Myron B. Liptzin of the President's Commission on Pornography if they hadn't volunteered to testify.

The trio, from the University of North Carolina, have said the experiment demonstrated prolonged exposure to pornography becomes boring.

Violate Codes
Nix said Monday the experiment encouraged students to violate moral standards at a time when they are questioning all values established by their elders.

"I want to know what the justification of this experiment is that it warrants breakdown of the culture," Nix said in an interview. "I don't think any culture has survived without fixed moral values."

"There have been experiments that seemed questionable but proved to benefit all mankind," he added. "If this proves to be that, I'll accept it. But I'll be damned if I'll take it like it is."

Sex Crimes
The commission's preliminary finding that pornography does not cause sex crimes and is not harmful was challenged in opening testimony before Nix's post-al operations subcommittee by a Salt Lake City psychologist.

"Because of the extreme complexity of the problem and the uniqueness of individual human experience," Dr. Victor B. Cline, said in prepared testimony, "it is doubtful that we will ever have absolutely convincing scientific proof that pornography is or isn't harmful."

Cline, chairman of the Salt Lake Area Youth Protection Committee, said reports that sex crimes dropped 51 per cent in Denmark after pornography was legalized are misleading because public indecency, voyeurism, male prostitution and sale of pornography are no longer counted as crimes in Denmark.

Cline said long-term effects of pornography cannot be determined from short-term studies such as those conducted by the presidential commission or by Denmark's one-year experience with legalized pornography.

"We may have to wait possibly for a generation," he said in his prepared remarks, to note its full effect on the life styles, marriage, patterns of divorce and the general happiness and well being of the Danish people."

Pregnant Actress Is Hospitalized

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Balearic Islands (AP) — Actress Jean Seberg has been admitted to a hospital here for an undisclosed illness during pregnancy.

A spokesman for Juaneda Clinic said Monday the 32-year-old Miss Seberg was admitted Saturday and is expected to be released Wednesday. He said her condition had improved greatly since admission.

Seven months pregnant, Miss Seberg, an Iowa native, is the wife of Romain Gary, a French diplomat and writer.

House Approves Rights for Women

concede, however, there is enough opposition in the full committee at least to delay the amendment. Bayh is committed to pressing first for action on an amendment for direct election of the president, now ready for Senate action.

Until Monday, the House had never had a chance to vote on the women's amendment, which states that "equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Similar Amendments
The Senate twice has approved similar amendments—but with a rider preserving legislation purportedly protecting women.

The outnumbered opposition to the current amendment, led by Celler, contended no one could tell what effect it would have on a wide variety of laws, such as those relating to paternity, rape, military service, N. Nedzi, Michigan, W. R. Po-family matters and protection for working women. He promised early hearings if the measure were sent back to his committee, but the House brushed the suggestion aside.

"I don't want to be one of the boys," said Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., but laws discriminate against women on the jobs and in the home.

Celler said it seemed shameful to pass such a sweeping measure with only an hour's debate.

This time the women's champion was Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, Republican leader.

There may be polishing needed, Ford admitted, but after all Celler had 20 years to do it as committee chairman.

Woman Opposed
Only Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., of the 10 women members missed the vote and she stayed away deliberately so as not to embarrass her female colleagues. She opposes the amendment, arguing as do some men that it will end many protections for women.

The 81 cosponsors of the Senate version "never expected to have it pass the House and now they're really on the spot," Mrs. Chisholm said.

Five Democrats, in addition to Celler, voted against the proposal. They are Thomas G. Abernethy of Mississippi, John D. Dingell of Michigan, Lucien N. Nedzi, Michigan, W. R. Po-family matters and protection for working women. He promised early hearings if the measure were sent back to his committee, but the House brushed the suggestion aside.

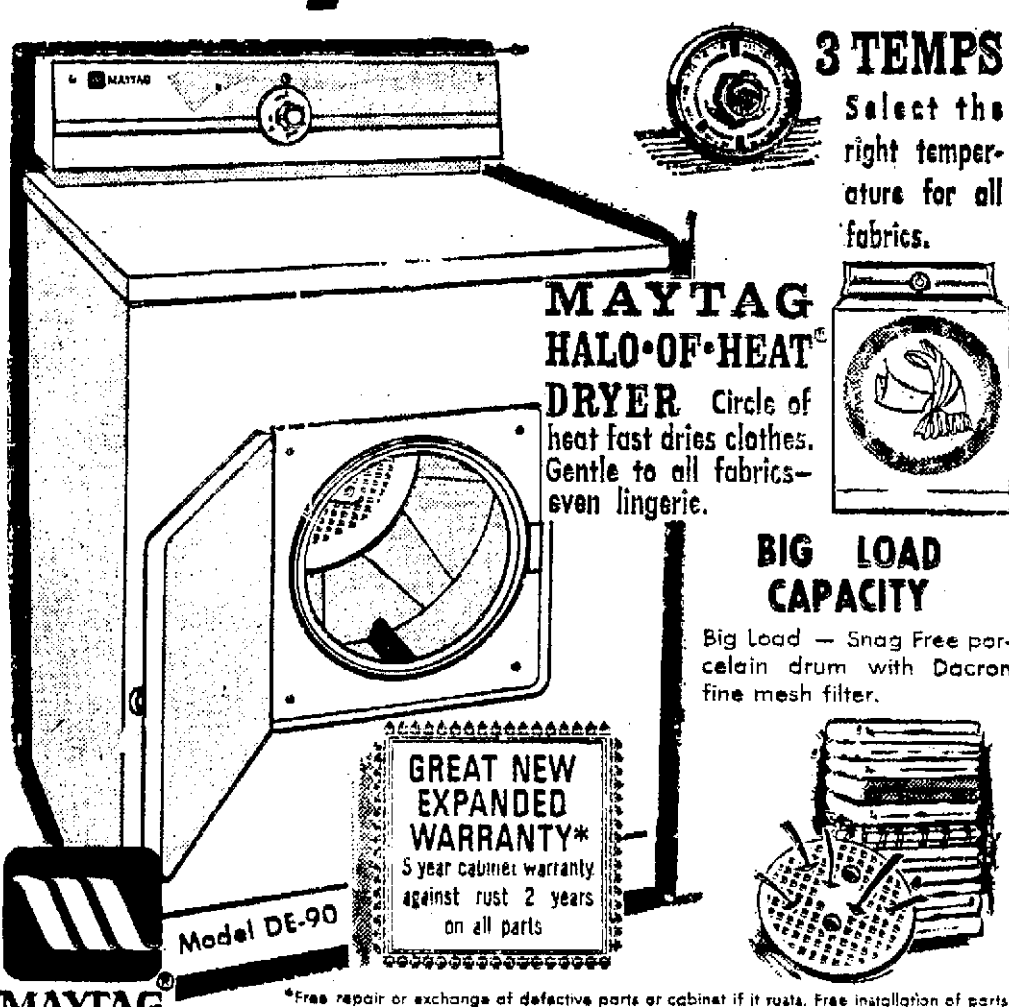

The nine Republicans who voted no are John W. Byrnes, Wisconsin, Glenn R. Davis, Wisconsin, David W. Dennis, Indiana, Earl F. Landgrebe, Indiana, Paul N. McCloskey Jr., California, William M. McCulloch, Ohio, John P. Saylor, Pennsylvania, John R. Schmitz, California, and Charles E. Wiggins, California.

War on Pollution

'Save Winnebago' Is Plea

CHILTON — About 75 persons interested in fighting pollution gathered at Schoen's Bar at Stockbridge Harbor to hear Edward J. Casper, president of Save Winnebago, Inc., outline plans to clean up the lake.

The executive board of the organization was also present at the meeting.

Casper showed color slides of actual polluted areas of the lake to the group, many of whom were property owners along the lake. The slides pictured routes clear around the lake and pollution was evident at many points, even in some areas controlled by the state.

Casper noted industrial operations along the shoreline in Fond du Lac which were polluting the lake.

Attorney Robert Lutz, Chilton, who is serving as the corporation lawyer, without remuneration, as are the others, told the group that the Department of Natural Resources will be asked for its help in enforcing laws to make those responsible for pollution to "clean up."

He said that only four orders for cleanup have been issued by the DNR, while some 100 orders are still on file with the department.

Lutz said that they would go into the courts if necessary. However, he hoped that individuals, municipalities and industries would be interested in saving the lake, and court action would not be needed.

Casper urged membership in Save Winnebago, Inc., which is $50 per membership. A certificate and decal to be displayed on automobiles are given with each membership. "It's going to take money to get this thing cleaned up," Casper said. He said that about $8,000 had been received in memberships.

It also was stated that through the efforts of State Rep. Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, the Army Corps of Engineers will be at the harbor to start dredging the channel to get rid of the sludge. Trucks to haul this to a nearby landfill in Stockbridge will be needed, and those present were asked to contact their local town chairman and supervisors to get trucks to the harbor to aid in hauling the sludge.

Plans are now being made to hold another meeting in Darboy, tentatively scheduled for Friday. Interested persons are asked to watch for notice of the next meeting.

Girl Bicyclist Strikes Car, Sustains Leg Cut

A 12-year-old Appleton girl was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital Monday night with injuries received when she rode her bicycle into a car in the 200 block of E. South Alley at Morrison Street.

Police said that Antoinette Popp, the daughter of Mrs. Donna Popp, 517 N. Morrison St., was cut on the leg when she rode into the right front fender of an auto pulling out westbound from the alley.

Officers said a car driven by Cheryl A. Cumber, 20, 2119 W. Second St., was starting from the alley when Miss Popp, riding south on the sidewalk, hit it. Police said the girl failed to have her bicycle lights on at the time. The mishap occurred about 8:15 p.m.

LU Alumnus 3M Co. Head

Raymond Herzog to Assume Executive Duties on Oct. 31

ST. PAUL — A 1938 graduate of Lawrence University (LU) was named president of the 3M Co. Monday.

Raymond H. Herzog has been vice president of graphic systems, the company's largest group. He will assume his new duties Oct. 31.

The board of directors also elected Harry Heltzer chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the firm, succeeding Bert S. Cross, who has been chairman since 1966.

Cross will reach the company retirement age of 65 this fall. He will remain a member of the board of directors.

Herzog, 54, is a native of Merricourt, N.D. He graduated from LU with a bachelor of arts degree. He worked as a high school coach and science teacher and joined 3M's coated abrasives division in 1941.

After several years in quality control work, he became production superintendent in 1950, transferring to the duplicating products division in 1953.

Herzog advanced to the post of general manager in 1956, to vice president three years later and to group vice president in 1963.

He will succeed Heltzer, 58, in the presidency.

Orlyn Zieman Acting School Superintendent

Orlyn Zieman, director of secondary education, has been named acting superintendent of Appleton Public Schools. The action came Monday at the Board of Education meeting after Mrs. Mabel McClanahan, chairman of the committee named to find a superintendent, moved to appoint Zieman to take over the daily duties of the post. He will be assisted by James Westphal, director of elementary education, and William Knuth, director of business affairs.

Westphal, director of elementary education, and William Knuth, director of business affairs.

All three men had been serving as an administrative team, each responsible for his present area of administration, since the death of Supt. William Spears July 20.

The board requested the three to take over the duties and at the same time board President Kenneth Sager appointed himself, Mrs. McClanahan and Charles Buchanan to the committee to search for a replacement for Spears.

At Monday's meeting Mrs. McClanahan informed her colleagues on the board that interested staff members have been interviewed for the top school position.

Other Applications
"The committee feels, however, that we should consider applications from throughout the state as well as surrounding states," she said.

"We are now receiving applications from people who have heard of the vacancy," the chairman added.

Zieman, who was asked before Monday night to take the job of acting superintendent, told the board, "I am not interested in the job on a permanent basis and I don't think I will change my mind. I assure you that when you find a capable person to take over the reins, they will be handed over not only willingly but eagerly."

OSU Graduate
Zieman, who has been with the Appleton school system since 1953, is an Oshkosh State University graduate. He received his masters degree in administration from the University of Wisconsin.

Bargaining to Continue in Utility Strike

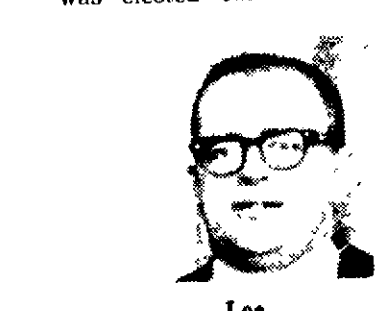

A third negotiating session in the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. (WMPCO) 33-day-old strike will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Conway Motor Inn.

Negotiators for WMPCO and Local 494 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers will meet over the labor dispute which has idled power company employees in northern Wisconsin since July 10.

Earlier bargaining sessions failed to make any progress. The most recent session last week lasted 19 hours and produced a tentative agreement on a new contract that could have ended the strike by workers at WMPCO's nuclear power plant project at Point Beach near Two Creeks, in Iron Mountain and at the home office in Appleton. Striking members of Local 494 rejected that contract, 199-135, Friday night.

Philip H. Simon, of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in Green Bay, will act as mediator.

He was named secondary curriculum coordinator for the system in 1964 but in 1965 he became acting principal at Appleton High School-West.

He returned to his post as director of secondary education a year later.

Continue Study
In her report, Mrs. McClanahan also suggested to the board that a study of the school system, which had been started last year by Dixon and Associates, management consultant team from Neenah, be continued.

Her suggestion was accepted by the board and the consultant team will be asked to do further research into the system to determine what improvement can be made in new teaching concepts and to clearly define the roles of the staff.

Feelings expressed by local municipalities Monday night about having Outagamie County operate all parks within the county were unanimous.

Plan Commission Favors Land Sale

Waste Paper Reclamation Plant Considers Treating Its Sewage

The sale of 10 acres of land in the Northeast Industrial Park won endorsement of the Appleton Plan Commission Monday, clearing another hurdle in the effort by B. J. Fibres, Inc., of Augusta, Ga., to locate a waste paper reclamation plant here.

The action came amidst disclosure by Public Works Director Robert Miller that the firm is considering treating its own sewage discharge rather than requiring municipal treatment and facing a possible sewer use tax.

Miller said the firm's process requires some 750,000 gallons of water per day and produces about 500,000 gallons of sewage.

But, the waste liquid, he said, is "relatively pure" and could be brought to standards required for ejecting it into storm sewers, to flow directly into the Fox River, rather than passing through the city's sewage treatment plant.

Miller said the firm is considering that alternative after being informed that a sewer use tax has been proposed and may be instituted after the city enlarges the treatment plant. Engineering studies for the expansion project are in beginning stages.

Miller had commented previously that if the firm is attached to the municipal sewer system, the design for the expanded plant could be adjusted for the added volume of waste the new firm would produce.

Other officers elected Monday are Richard Kilsdonk, Little Chute, vice chairman, and James Kluge, Kimberly, treasurer. Kenneth Poppy, CESA-8 coordinator, is secretary, as statute provides.

Elected as voting members of the 11-man board are Joseph Peeters, Clintonville; Cy Wyenberg, Freedom; Roger Wehling, Hortonville; Gordon Lamers, Kaukauna; John Ricker, Menasha; Frank Hochholzer, Neenah; Claude Thomsen, Oshkosh; and George Dobberke Jr., Winneconne.

Other school districts in CESA-8 are Appleton, Kaukauna, Manawa, New London, Omro and Weyauwega.

CESA agencies were organized in 1965 to replace offices of a county superintendents of schools.

Municipalities Unanimous Park System Rapped

county were represented at an informal public hearing called by the county committee to determine if there was interest in a county park system.

Supv. Nick Karras, Appleton, chairman of the committee, said it wanted to establish whether or not there was a need for total county operation of parks and, if there was, how this best could be established.

The discussion never got to the second question.

Unanimous Opposition
While there was unanimous opposition, there was a call for better communication between the various local governments and the county.

James Mead, chairman of the Town of Grand Chute's park commission and a member of the Fox Valley Council of Government's (COG) park planning unit, said there was a need for dialogue between the county and its subunits.

Grand Chute Town Chairman Ira Livingston said the county could serve best as a coordinator. He added the town works with the Appleton Park Commission to avoid duplication and suggested the county could coordinate efforts of all the municipalities.

County Administrator Alvin Woehler said it appeared each community was looking for a means of communication and he hoped the meeting would help develop it. "We have to start to coordinate in many areas," he said.

The lineup of opposition ranged from Appleton on down to the small towns.

Buckley Concedes

Planning Director Jack Hetu told the commission that the city's industrial park zoning ordinance will be rewritten to include restrictions on noise, air pollution and other factors, which the new plant and other firms locating in the industrial park will be required to observe.

— Referral back to the developers of the preliminary Gauthier Plat No. 1, near Meade Street and Northland Avenue in the city, and the Edgewood Heights Plat in the Town of Grand Chute on County Trunk JJ, east of State 47.

Commissioners want the changes recommended by the planning office, along with sewer plans coordinated with the surrounding area. The Edgewood Heights Plat document shows Town of Grand Chute officials as approving agents, and commissioners pointed out the city should be listed instead.

School Construction Needs Drop in Appleton District

Only Two Projects Certain in Next Five Years

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Only two building projects are certain in the next five years in the Appleton school district.

That conclusion was drawn from an updated annual five-year plan presented Monday night to the Board of Education by Charles Buchanan, chairman of a committee conducting the study.

Leveling off of enrollments and a resulting decrease in school building needs also mean that the bond debt of the city for schools will go down by $6.5 million in the next five years.

According to the report, the only two certain capital improvements programs for the next five years are the $1.8 million Appleton High School-West addition and renovation program, which will be started this year, and the $1.6 million north-central elementary school, for which an architect already has been selected.

It will be begun in 1971 and completed a year later.

Projects Needs
The five-year capital improvements plan — based on a review of enrollments, census information, classroom capacities and population trends — is established to project the system's needs for additional classroom facilities.

It also indicates that this year's indebtedness of $14.5 million will be reduced by the end of 1976 to an estimated $8 million.

Consideration is given in the report to either a central city elementary school, which would eliminate the old, but currently in use, Jackson, Washington and Columbus schools and would cost an estimated $1.7 million, or an addition to Franklin School for about $650,000.

Either project would be considered in 1974.

Construction Boom
Although schools were being constructed in the 1960s, the report shows that it was during the 1960s that the construction boomed, not only in numbers but in price, sending the indebtedness up to the current $14.5 million — largest in the Appleton school system's history.

Built in the past decade were Edison ($925,000); Foster addition ($240,000); Johnston ($895,000); Einstein Junior High ($1.8 million); East High School and Huntley addition ($5.3 million); Highlands ($1.45 million); McKinley and Madison Junior High addition ($1.95 million), and the Roosevelt and Wilson Junior High additions this year ($2.6 million). The major reasons for this construction boom were increases in the birth rate and a shift from parochial to public schools.

Anticipated Slowdown
The anticipated reversal or slowdown of both of these also are the reasons there will be less need for new facilities in the next half decade.

"Supposedly, the private schools are reaching the point where fewer enrollment shifts to the public schools will occur," Buchanan pointed out.

"The feeling is that a type of 'hard core' will be reached and while the shifts to the public schools will continue, some tapering off of numbers will occur," he added.

Large Units Built
Barring any large move-in population and considering the reduced birth rate in the district, the trend is expected to continue, the report states.

Another big reason — one often overlooked — is that the last several schools built in Appleton have been large units with an 1,800 person capacity at the high school level and a 1,000 capacity at the elementary and junior high levels.

Such units not only accommodate larger enrollments but can include advanced educational programs such as unitized organization and team teaching, it was pointed out.

Math-science centers and building instructional material centers are readily justifiable due to the larger enrollments and with several classrooms available at each level, students can better be deployed, the report says.

Full-Time Scheduling
Large-group and small-group instruction using the various backgrounds and experiences of many teachers and providing more individual attention to students also is more easily achieved.

Supportive staff, such as music, art and physical education personnel can be scheduled full-time in the building, eliminating travel time and inflexible schedules.

Touching briefly on the economical angle, the report states that smaller buildings have proven costly over the years. Conversely, large units can house several students while requiring only one salary for an administrator, one heating plant and less maintenance and custodial cost than two smaller buildings.

"In short, the five-year plan accomplishes the goals of providing larger units which are more conducive to modern education and practical economics at all levels.

"It provides more equal educational opportunities for several hundred young people and has a built-in decrease in total bonded indebtedness and the conclusion of that five-year period."

DNR Support of Areawide Sewage Systems Opposed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The development of areawide sewage treatment and disposal systems is being promoted by the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in spite of some resistance from municipal spokesmen who complain that such pressure from the state agency will interfere with the orderly organization and development of urban areas in other respects.

The League of Wisconsin Municipalities has protested that the DNR policy is in direct contradiction to the objectives of the State Department of Local Affairs and Development.

The arguments are being presented to a legislative interim committee which is giving further study to a bill that was offered in the 1970 legislature and proposed to require contiguous areas desiring such a system to consent to annexation by the parent municipality.

But the DNR has adopted its own formal policy, called a nonproliferation policy, which calls for cooperative sewage service arrangements without regard to the annexation question, always a hotly disputed question in legislative halls.

Thomas G. Frangos, administrator of the DNR's Division of Environmental Protection, has told the Legislature's local government interim committee that he has been directed by the policy board of DNR to promote the use of unified sewage collection systems serving contiguous areas, and to encourage the connection of developing areas to existing treatment plants where such action is feasible.

It also has been directed to discourage the construction of such systems not designed in accordance with an acceptable areawide plan, he testified.

The policy is called nonproliferation by the department which has broad powers under the state's pollution abatement laws, and considerable financial leverage in the funds made available to it under the new CRAP program for grants of construction aids for the financing of pollution abatement and prevention work.

Frangos' defense of the DNR policy statement has brought a tart response from the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which has traditionally resisted the extension of municipal services to outside areas because such availability of service discourages the annexation of near-by urbanized areas.

"Narrow View"
"It would be unfortunate," said Ed Johnson of the league, "if your department took the narrow view that your only responsibility is to prevent pollution of our waters and ignored the effect that your orders and actions could have on local government in general."

"It would be a little bit ridiculous for one agency of the State of Wisconsin to develop policies which would be exactly contrary to the role of assisting local governments to develop in an orderly fashion what has been assigned to another agency."

"It appears absolutely imperative that you coordinate your activities with those of DLAD," he said.

Sen. William A. Draheim of Neenah and Rep. Jack Steinhilber of Oshkosh are cochairmen of the local government study committee, representing a general area that has shown more interest in inter-urban service cooperation than most other sections of the state.

Public's Suggestions Wanted Langedyke by Any Other Name to Take Time

The Appleton Plans Commission Monday refused to put off renaming the north side Langedyke park for six months to a year, but also declined to act immediately.

Commissioners instead deferred action to their next meeting and sent the matter to the Citizens Advisory Committee and the Parks and Recreation Commission. In addition, Mayor George Buckley called for suggestions from the public.

While plans commissioners couldn't bring themselves to take serious action immediately, they couldn't resist a few facetious suggestions, either.

Offerings ranged from "North Park" to "Belly Acres." And in between, commissioners took turns naming the park after each other.

After someone suggested "Gertsch Grove," Parks and Recreation Commissioner Chairman Ralph Gertsch took exception to renaming the park at all, for six months to a year.

His commission is seeking state and federal aid for the development of the 106-acre tract and all the fund applications call it the Langedyke Development. Changing the name could bring a tangle of red tape, Gertsch fretted.

Commissioner Gordon Myse sought to soothe Gertsch's worries. "I think even Washington could master that," he said.

Myse suggested asking suggestions from the Citizens Advisory Committee and Buckley put in the motion, adding postponement of Plans Commission action to the next meeting. Gertsch then objected that park names usually come from the parks and recreation body, so the motion was amended to get the recommendation of Gertsch's commission, too.

But when Gertsch attempted to have the matter postponed 6 months to a year, nobody seconded his motion and it died.

Buckley said citizens with ideas for names may put them in writing along with an explanation of the reason for their suggestion, and send them to his office. Telephone calls won't be considered, he added, because anyone truly interested should be willing to write.

Town of Menasha Reschedules Vote For Bridge Funds

MENASHA — Town of Menasha residents will have to wait until the November election to vote on whether they want to help finance the proposed Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge.

The referendum had originally been set for the September primary election, but the town board Monday night decided to move the date back to November.

Arguing that the City of Menasha was going to vote in November, Supv. Frederick Miller said, "We should vote in November, too, so we're voting at the same time."

Vote Outcome

"By voting in November, the city won't be able to use the outcome of our referendum to campaign either way for the bridge," Miller added.

Roland Kampo, town chairman, who abstained from voting, facetiously suggested, "They should make the bridge out of rubber the way it's been bouncing around."

Kampo had also been the lone dissenter two weeks ago when the town board retracted an earlier move to commit $500,000 of town funds toward the bridge construction.

The combination town, city and county project has been estimated at about $3 million and would be located north of Ninth Street.

The bridge has been a constant issue and came to a head last fall when the State Highway Commission conducted a public hearing which is the first step in the line of red tape to be placed on the state's bridge priority list.

County Commitment

Although the Little Lake bridge was not on a list of 13 bridges on the state's top priority, the status was altered when the Winnebago County board voted to commit $1.8 million, and the city, $700,000, along with the town's $500,000.

The bridge had been on the state's second priority list which would have meant possible 1973-74 planning and funding.

However, the moves by the town, city and county to commit the funds had spurred talk of moving the bridge up in state priorities.

An alternative, suggested by State Rep. Harold Froehlich (R-Appleton), as to build the bridge further north to tie in with Prospect Avenue instead of shooting over to U.S. 41 from the Ninth Street location.

The Highway Commission today announced public hearings concerning Oneida Street and Memorial Drive bridges on Sept. 9, just one day after the referendum vote had been scheduled in the town.

Jaycees 'Do Something' to Assist NM Volunteers

NEENAH - MENASHA — An aggressive effort to involve the Twin City community with itself will be launched by the Neenah-Menasha Jaycees in September.

The Chamber of Commerce executive board Monday gave its unanimous endorsement to the Jaycees' "Do Something" project, which is aimed at combining all volunteer work under a single roof.

Start Next Month

Daniel Began, Jaycee president, said the project would be getting underway sometime in early September with a meeting of all organizations in the Twin Cities which make use of volunteer workers.

"Actually what this is," Began explained, "is an employment agency for volunteer workers. Our plan is to solicit volunteers for specific jobs."

Stimulate Interest

"We think that by soliciting for a specific job, we can stimulate community interest in giving some time to a specific organization," he said.

"I'm not asking for manpower or money. All we would like is the prestige and power of the senior Chamber in promoting the project," Began told the chamber executive committee.

He indicated there would be efforts in the churches and schools to solicit the volunteer labor.

Worker Liaison

"We want to act as the liaison between the organizations who need the workers and the workers," he said.

The promotion, which is a project of the national Jaycee organization, is being carried out with the help of the Pepsi Company which has lent its "You've Got a Lot to Live" slogan to the movement, Began explained.

Pointing to the transient character of the Twin Cities population, Began said, "We want to be able to have something to show people what they can do when they move into the community."

Specific Jobs

Meetings are going to be set up in early September with all Twin City organizations which depend on volunteer workers to fulfill their functions. "What we want to do is get a complete list of what type of workers are needed and where so we can solicit workers to fill specific jobs," he added.

"If an organization needs a secretary three hours a week, we want to be able to solicit the worker to work three hours a week as a secretary," he explained.

Also planned are community wide programs to solicit workers to complete a card file of volunteers.

Town Hikes Valuation $3,441,830

MENASHA — Pointing to an increase of $3,441,830 in the Town of Menasha's assessed valuation, Assessor Edwin P. Harold Monday predicted that the town's actual value has gone over the $100 million mark this year.

The town's assessed value now stands at $45,921,500 which is an increase of about 7.8 per cent during the past year.

Harold said about a quarter of the increase came as a result of bringing all properties in the town up to 50 per cent of full value.

Reassessment

"We had an overall reassessment this year by attempting to bring all the property up to the 50 per cent level," Harold pointed out. According to the State Supervisor of Assessments latest report, based on 1959, figures, the town was assessed at about 44 per cent of actual value.

The biggest increase, on a percentage basis, came in the personal property category where the $1,254,730 jump was a 24 per cent increase. Harold explained that about one fifth of the increase came from the Kimberly-Clark Corporation's "Lakeview Cannovall" which was dropped from the real estate assessments and added to the personal property rolls.

Real Estate

Real Estate showed a 5.5 per cent increase and now stands at $39,520,200, up just over $2 million.

According to Harold's statistics, residential property still comprises the major portion of the town's value. The new value put on residential property is $18,965,200, an increase of 8.2 per cent.

Mercantile values were up about 4 per cent to $8,652,500 and industrial land and improvements are now listed at $10,262,200, which is an increase of 1.4 per cent.

Farm Values

Agricultural values were up about 11 per cent to $1,602,200.

Based on Harold's new figures and the state's estimate of 44 per cent as the ratio between assessed and full value, the town's equalized value should be about $104,367,040.

In 1969, the state set the town's equalized value (recommended full value) at $95.3 million.

Bradley Proposes Levy Students to Pay for Riots?

MENASHA — State Rep. Gordon R. Bradley has asked for the establishment of "riot funds" on Wisconsin campuses, to be collected from the students themselves, to cover the costs of student disruptions.

"The taxpayers of the state of Wisconsin cannot and will not continue to provide revenue for educational facilities and opportunities for our students when they dissent, disrupt, and destroy the very process which provide them with an education," Bradley said in a letter to the board of regents of State Universities and the University of Wisconsin.

Semester Charge

In the letter, Bradley said students should be charged $50 upon entrance to school each semester. The money would be returned if additional police protection is not required to quell campus disturbances.

The Second District assemblyman said that if students have a financial stake in preserving campus order, "they may develop their own form of self-policing."

"Students who do not want to lose their $50 deposit will not only refrain from violence themselves, but also discourage fellow students from participating in anything but peaceful protest," Bradley said.

Bradley, pointing to recent campus disruptions at Madison which "will cost the state taxpayers about $300,000" and an Oshkosh State University outbreak which carries a $30,000 price tag, said if the $50 doesn't cover the cost of disruptions, the riot fund should be increased.

NM Sewage Commission To Seek Grants for Plant

NEENAH - MENASHA — Grant applications from the sewerage commission to the Department of Natural Resources and state bureau of planning are two documents away from being ready to send in.

Plant manager Ronald St. Laurent told commissioners Monday night that an exact site description and recommendations from the Fox Valley Council of Governments were the last hang ups.

Commission attorney William Giese promised to pluck the description off assessment roles, and approval of the expansion plans is on COG's agenda for Aug. 12. Passage is expected.

100 Pages

St. Laurent will then truck the weighty application to Madison. It is over 100 pages long, as 12 exhibits, countless sets of existing drawings and must be in triplicate, of course.

Getting it in doesn't mean the state will turn on the funding spigot right now. Final approval for the $315.5 million expansion can't be expected until the working drawings and final specifications are approved. Consoer & Townsend engineers say it will take them about a year to get them together.

User Fees

The commission will also have to devise a user fee system for industry before final approval can come.

Even with approval for the 40-million-gallon-a-day expansion, money won't come. The rules say no funds until 25 per cent of the concrete and steel is in the ground. Then payments start, continuing with each added quarter of completion. If money is available. And that depends on Congress.

New Scholarship Established at Paper Institute

A $50,000 scholarship fund, half made up by a Landegger Foundation gift and the other half by the Black Clawson Co., New York, has been established at the Institute of Paper Chemistry.

It will help meet the approximately $200,000 in scholarships the institute grants annually to all of its students. The student body averages 75 and plans are to increase it to 100.

The fund is named after Karl F. Landegger, president and chief executive of Parsons & Whittemore, Inc., New York, an engineering and construction consultant to pulp and paper mills.

Parsons manufactures and sells pulp and paper machinery through Black Clawson.

Buckley Supports Plan Joint County Study Backed for Library

A recommendation from the staff of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) favoring formation of an Outagamie-Winnebago County Library Committee to study the feasibility of joint library service today received immediate support from Appleton Mayor George Buckley.

The mayor, who prompted the COG recommendation by proposing an Outagamie County library system to absorb local libraries instead of expanding the existing Appleton Public Library system, said he hoped the Outagamie County Board would form a library committee immediately.

The board was in session today and the mayor was attempting to arrange an appearance before the board to urge formation of the committee.

According to the COG memo, the recommendation to perform the study at the bi-county level grew from Buckley's May 12 request for a COG study of the feasibility of a county or regional system.

Counties Job
Such a study, the memo states, is "more appropriately undertaken by the counties," since COG "represents only the urban areas of Outagamie and Winnebago Counties."

The study and development of an appropriate plan "is best carried out at the broadest level of concern to allow the greatest flexibility in determining an eventual solution," the memo says.

To determine whether a single-county or two-county system is desirable will require analysis of present library facilities and services, outlining deficiencies and future needs, according to COG. The study should lead to a plan for facilities and services and decisions on appropriate geographic service areas and proposals of alternative organizational structures, the memo continues.

100 Per Cent Grant
If the two counties form cooperating county committees, they would be eligible for federal library aid funds to cover the full cost of the study, COG said. However, such funds are available only until the end of the current year, without assurance that a new appropriation will be passed by Congress for the next year.

"Therefore, application will have to be made in the next few months to make use of these funds," the COG report warns.

The two county committees would contract with COG and the state Division of Library Services to carry out the study.

Buckley proposed a county library system after the Appleton Library Board put in an urgent request last spring for consideration of new library facilities for the city.

Late Registration Set For Kimberly Schools

KIMBERLY — All school buildings will be open Monday for late registration, according to Supt. of Schools Ray Hamann.

Parents are urged to register their children by Aug. 28 for the student-teacher orientation program.

Part of The 650 employees who took part in the emergency evacuation drill at the Aid Association for Lutherans Monday are shown in the area on the north side of the building. Four different exits were used in the drill which was called at 2 p.m. of Total evacuation at two exits and less than six minutes for the west wing exit on Superior Street which accommodates a large number of employees. The drill is part of a continuing safety program at AAL. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Municipalities Rap System of County Parks

recommendation of the city's Park and Recreation Commission.

Ralph Gertsch, chairman of the commission, left no doubt where he stood but then suggested the county levy a park tax to help the local communities run their parks.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, representing Seymour Mayor Chris Roepke; Town of Greenville Chairman Rudolph Spreeman; Town of Freedom Chairman George Schroeder; Mrs. Walter Schoenrock, New London Park Commission; Supv. Henry Breitling, speaking for Bear Creek; Supv. Sylvester Lenz, for Kimberly; and Mayor Gilbert Anderson, Kaukauna, all expressed opposition to having their parks taken over by the county.

The story was basically the same in each community: land had been donated to the community for park purposes and had been developed through donations and volunteer labor.

Livingston, expressing what others also said, contended eliminating local control of parks would kill the local interest.

"Won't Donate Time"

"You won't find people willing to donate their time, money and land in a large system," he said. He suggested the county stick to area-type parks and let the local communities run their own smaller parks.

Arno Haering, regional planning director for COG, also agreed that a two-level park system might be more feasible in the county. "It may be difficult," he said, "to impose one system throughout the county."

The major problem, he noted, was that most of the park demand was in the one corner of the county.

Erik Madisen Jr., editor of Park Maintenance magazine, suggested that at present the county really has nothing to offer the local communities.

"The next step for the county," he said, "is to either create a park commission or hire a professional park administrator. The county is in worse shape than anybody to take over the parks," he said.

Judge Still Working On Annexation Ruling

Wednesday marks the anniversary date of the Roeland in full in each following year. A Annexation trial involving two major source of revenue is the townships and the City of Appleton, on which the awaited from Circuit Judge utility pays taxes to the state, William Crane.

Asked this morning about the municipality in which the status of the case, the Winnebago-Outagamie County circuit judge said he was "working on from the Town of Harrison, it."

Asked the reason the case along with a strip of Oneida has gone almost a year without Street right-of-way then in the decision, he replied, "None at Town of Menasha. The two all. It's just one that there isn't towns jointly challenged the annexation in the case before."

According to city officials, Judge Crane.

however, there is a sizable sum of money in the form of tax revenues riding on the case. By the city has collected since 1967 one estimate, real estate and utility taxes received by the city since the land was annexed, have averaged upwards of $30,000 per year.

The annexation of the 110 acres, which includes land owned by the city, private owners, and the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., dates from June of 1967.

At Manitowoc Camp 7 Migrant Laborers Charged in Stabbing

MANITOWOC — Six men and a 17-year-old boy were expected to be brought into Manitowoc County Court today on charges stemming from the fatal stabbing of a migrant worker near Two Rivers early Sunday.

Jesus Morin, 44, San Vicente, Mexico, was dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital where he was taken by car after being stabbed in a cabin at a Lakeside Packing Co. migrant workers camp. Sheriff Donald Hillstrom said a final decision on charges to be lodged against the seven will come after he confers with Dist. Atty. Robert E. Koutnik today.

All seven persons, taken into custody shortly after the stabbing, are being held for investigation. Hillstrom said the suspects, ages 17 to 33, are all migrant laborers.

Although Hillstrom said that no exact reason could be given for the stabbing, it appeared to be the result of "something that has been brewing there a couple of weeks." He said there had been "bad feelings" between two groups at the camp.

Morin had multiple knife wounds, but died as a result of a stab wound in the heart, authorities said.

Two of the men being held in jail here suffered minor injuries in the fight. They were treated at a hospital.

Authorities said they confiscated seven knives, including linoleum, bread, switch blade and butcher models.

Allergy Likely Cause Of a Splitting Tongue

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What makes my tongue split when I eat fruits of any kind and some vegetables? Is it that I have too much acid in my system or what? — Mrs. G.T.

Such splitting of the tongue is not only painful but it makes the tongue susceptible to infection in the cracks, so you have a double reason for wanting to overcome it.

It is not a matter of "acid in your system," this notion about "acid" being an old idea but not a valid one. It's just an expression that really doesn't mean anything.

The more probable answer to your trouble is allergy — that you have become sensitive to something that is put in the mouth. It may be foods of certain kinds. (Such allergies often occur from eating certain nuts.)

The best solution usually is careful observation by the patient himself — avoiding foods that seem to cause the splitting. But keep in mind that things other than foods may be the real culprits — dental cream, denture adhesives, or other materials that you use regularly in the mouth. If you stop using one of them for a matter of some days and the tongue begins to heal, you have found a likely clue to your troubles.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For years my stomach has been "growing," and my doctor says it is nothing. However, is there any way to cover this up or stop it temporarily? — E.V.

From the health standpoint your doctor is doubtless right, but if the noise bothers you, it shouldn't be too difficult to control it.

Strictly speaking, it probably isn't your stomach but rather the intestine that is "growing," a complaint commonly (but not always) associated with folks who are nervously tense and get very little vigorous physical exercise. Those two tips, especially the latter, may be of some help to you.

There are also medications that can limit the buildup of gas, which is one of the topics in my new booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Send 25

Music Festival Opens On Note of Splendor

40-Piece Orchestra Superb, Two Guest Artists Well Chosen to Launch 18th Event

BY JACK RUDOLPH

FISH CREEK — Ludwig van Beethoven, Hans Richter-Haaser, Eleanor Steber Thor Johnson and an amazingly fine orchestra combined rich talents to launch the 18th annual Peninsula Music Festival on a tidal wave of splendid music-making over the weekend.

Saturday night, Richter-Haaser joined forces with the 40-piece ensemble in paying superb tribute to Beethoven's bi-centennial. Sunday afternoon Miss Steber was the guest artist, her appearance being a fitting climax to one of the finest inaugural weekends in years.

The surprise was the astonishing quality of Dr. Johnson's youthful orchestra. The group played with relaxed enthusiasm, discipline and precision, producing a lovely sound that ranged from a feathery whisper to a big, resonant fortissimo. Attacks were crisp, releases sharp, and the sensitivity of the orchestra to Johnson's command was beautiful for this time of the season.

Back after 7 Years

Back for his first visit in seven years, pianist Hans Richter-Haaser matched the remarkable early polish of the orchestra with an equally magnificent reading of Beethoven's Fourth Piano Concerto.

The all-Beethoven program was not only a completely satisfying start but a worthy tribute to the 200th anniversary of the composer's birth.

Looking a bit like a jovial Kewpie doll with sideburns, the grey-haired pianist played beautifully, with surging but firmly controlled fire. With the orchestra according him spectacular support, the concerto was a thrilling experience.

Voice, Personality

A poised and polished veteran of the operatic stage, Metropolitan Opera diva Eleanor Steber's magnificent voice and compelling stage personality established her right to a high place among the prestigious singers who have preceded her here.

As it had with Hans Richter-Haaser the night before, the Festival Orchestra rose to her challenge with exceptionally fine support. The ensemble was alert to every nuance, responded to Dr. Johnson's command with vigor and precision and projected a soaring, incandescent sound.

Miss Steber opened "Ar, Perfido!" somewhat tentatively but once into the music sang with passionate intensity. The contrast between the blazing fury of a woman scorned and the pleading heartbreak of one forsaken was beautifully developed.

Her reputation as an interpreter of Richard Strauss was fully vindicated in "Four Last Songs" as she subtly shaded from the bright, cheerful mood of "Spring" to the dark, softly modulated calm of "At Dusk."

Receives Ovation

She acknowledged an enthusiastic ovation with a hair-raising encore. The first act aria "Ernani, inviolami" from Verdi's opera "Ernani" is, by her own statement a sentimental favorite and she sang it with great intensity, the security of deep affection and dramatic power.

If, after 30 years, her big, powerful voice has inevitably lost some of the opulence from the top it is still an impressive instrument. Her middle register is strong, steady and warm. Miss Steber uses her voice with intelligent musicianship, a formidable technique and the suave confidence of long experience. She is a fine trouper.

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — At the precise moment Arthur Goldberg and top campaign aides were critically viewing a screen test of Goldberg-for-Governor television spots here Thursday New York City voters were getting their first eyeful of actual Rockefeller-for-Governor TV ads in the prime-time hours of 6 p.m. to midnight.

TV spots for the impoverished campaign of Democrat Goldberg, when finally approved, will be only 10 seconds long, but the spots for Republican Nelson Rockefeller, filmed and approved by the candidate weeks ago, are cut for a full 60 seconds.

Thus the well-oiled Rockefeller campaign is already outpacing the campaign of the former Supreme Court Justice and United Nations ambassador in two critical areas: money and organization. With all the polls now showing Goldberg substantially ahead of Rockefeller, money and organization — campaign tools that Rockefeller has more of than any candidate in history — are essential if he is to close the gap and win an unprecedented fourth straight four-year term in Albany.

But even with his huge money-and-organization margin over Goldberg, closing the gap (15 percentage points in the recent highly-regarded Oliver Quayle poll) won't be easy. Goldberg is Jewish and his running mate, State Sen. Basil Paterson, is black. Between them, the Jews and the blacks make up fully one-third of the state's total vote.

Accordingly, Rockefeller starts far behind with two voter blocs that have given him substantial support in his three previous campaigns. To reduce this disadvantage, extraordinary efforts are being made, built on cash and organization. Long-time Rockefeller political ally

Evans Novak

Jackie Robinson and Mrs. Evelyn Cunningham (a Negro state aide to Rockefeller now on leave) have warned R. Burdell Bixby, Rockefeller's tough, able campaign manager, that a special campaign fund of between $500,000 and $1 million to be used in Harlem and other black areas is absolutely essential.

Robinson (who has the title of deputy campaign manager) and Mrs. Cunningham are in command of holding losses in black communities to a minimum. Because of what one black politician calls "the delicate nature of the campaign" in black areas, they want carte blanche to run their own campaigns among black voters their own way, without interference from Rockefeller headquarters. Without at least a half-million dollars, Robinson has told Bixby, the effort would not be worth making.

Whatever amount is finally sent into black communities, Rockefeller's battle to offset the political pull of Paterson (the first Negro ever nominated for lieutenant-governor) will be unprecedented.

As for the even more important Jewish vote, Rockefeller is finding that Goldberg is something less than a universal choice. The most conspicuous defection is Samuel I. Rosenman, Franklin Roosevelt's special counsel, who heads a new "Democrats for Rockefeller" committee.

Rockefeller's problems with the Jews and blacks, however, may be more than offset by his new appeal to labor unions, particularly hard hats in the conservative construction unions, and to ethnic Italian and German voters who like his conspicuous third-term move to the right. Rockefeller aides have been talking quietly to Mario Procaccino, last year's hard-line Democratic mayoral nominee. A Procaccino endorsement of Rockefeller would cause Goldberg a sizeable slice of the normally Democratic Italian vote.

To help capture this ethnic vote, much of it in rebellion against student riots, black demonstrations, and hippyism, Rockefeller and his running mate, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, will have a second line on the November ballot labeled "Civil Service-Independents." The objective: to give what Rockefeller aides call "monolithic" Democratic voters a chance to vote for Rockefeller without voting Republican.

Moreover, Rockefeller is getting subtle help from the Conservative party, whose Senate nominee, James Buckley, is careful to avoid harsh criticism of his record as governor. In keeping with this unacknowledged mutual-aid society, Buckley is conspicuously ignored, instead of being attacked, by Rockefeller. More important, Buckley's astute campaign manager, F. Clifton White, is publicly backing Rockefeller.

Add to this the vivid contrast between amateur campaigner Goldberg, still stiff, aloof, and untutored, and old pro Rockefeller — relaxed and affable with 12 years of practice under his belt — and Goldberg's 15-point advantage in the poll seems curiously irrelevant.

Insurance Education Programs Slated for Appleton, Green Bay

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Wisconsin Foundation for Insurance Education, with the collaboration of the State Department of Insurance, will conduct its education program in the Appleton and Green Bay areas this fall, the state agency has announced.

The program is a service of the Insurance Institute of America, a non-profit organization financially supported by the insurance industry with a long range goal of promoting insurance education at all levels.

Solon's Firm Loses Grant

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles has revoked a federal aid grant to an educational planning firm run by a Democratic state legislator after learning of the lawmaker's involvement.

A $65,760 Office of Economic Opportunity pilot project grant approved by the Republican governor a month ago after Knowles learned that the firm was headed by State Rep. Manny Brown, D-Racine.

The grant had been made to Education Associates, Inc., of Racine, and was described as a pilot project to research the educational needs of disadvantaged youngsters in community colleges. The project was also aimed at developing educational programs to meet the needs of the disadvantaged, according to the application.

Wisconsin has no community colleges, said Knowles.

Clancy, Lusteg Impressive in Packer Drills

Cleo Walker Joins Dave Bradley on Casualty Roster

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Scout Wally Cruice was on the scene to brief the Packers on their next opponents, the Chicago Bears, when they returned to the practice field Monday to prepare for Saturday night's Midwest Shrine match in Milwaukee County Stadium.

Cleo Walker, now a linebacker after an earlier stint at center, twisted an ankle in the morning practice. Guard Dave Bradley was withheld because of his shoulder injury which, he reported, occurred on the Packers' opening kickoff return.

"I was coming across and I threw a block," he informed. "I got the guy but, when I hit the ground, I must have landed on my elbow, and the shoulder popped. The doctor said he thought I'd be out for two or three weeks."

Clancy Impressive
Jack Clancy again impressed with his pass receiving skills and kicker Booth Lusteg staged a sterling exhibition prior to the afternoon workout, connecting on 18 of 20 field goal attempts.

'Numbers Game' Begins in Earnest

Packer Roster Reduced to 55; Heaviest Future Cuts Loom in Offensive Unit

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Now the raillbirds, delayed somewhat by the long pro football strike, can begin playing the "number game" in earnest.

With the release of 10 players
Monday, the Packers' personnel picture has come abruptly into focus, presenting a challenge for the multitude of loyalists who pride themselves on their powers of perception.

A progressively more serious problem looms for Coach Phil Bengtson and his coaching colleagues, who must make some hard decisions between now and Sept. 15, at which point the roster will have to be at the regular season maximum of 40.

At the moment, there are 55 athletes in training camp, including 19 rookies and minus first round draftee Rich Mc-George, the Elon, N.C., College phenom who presently is soldiering in California but is scheduled to be released from service later in the month.

Could Weigh Heavily Injuries and trades obviously could weigh heavily in the days ahead but the major reductions undoubtedly will come from the offensive platoon, which rather substantially out-numbers the defense at this juncture, 33 to 22.

There are, for example, six wide receivers on the scene, including rookies Frank Foreman (Michigan State), Mike Carter (Sacramento State) and

Terry Fredenberg (UW-M), the latter back for a second try.
They are competing with veterans Carroll Dale, John Spils and Jack Clancy, the ex-Miami Dolphin who dazzled in last Saturday night's 31-31 tie with the New York Giants.

A year ago, Bengtson carried only three at this position because Donny Anderson was available for flanker duty if needed, a situation that again obtains in the current deliberations.

There also are five guards, among them rookies Bob Lints (Eastern Michigan) and Don Bliss (Wisconsin), like Fredenberg back for a second attempt.
They are contending with sophomore Dave Bradley, presently sidelined by a shoulder separabumbling preseason game.

The former Kentucky ace became the first veteran head to Norton was lopped off the National Football League team's roster along with six others.

J. J. Smith Captures Two Feature Wins

Appleton's J. J. Smith continued his torrid pace in area stock car races over the weekend, copping features at the Shawano track Saturday night and at the De Pere Brown County Track Sunday night.

A turnout of over 3,700 fans watched Smith's victory at Shawano, and over 5,000 viewed his triumph at De Pere.
Smith, driving a 1969 Ford
Torino, captured the 20-lap Shawano feature when he overtook Green Bay's Ted Peters.
Peters' 1967 Chevelle developed a slow-leaking tire during the race, and Peters eventually lost the lead.

New London's John Beyers, who came out of retirement to drive another 1969 Ford Torino formerly driven by Roger Re-geth, finished in third place.
Underhill's Jerry Schultz garnered fourth and Oshkosh's Bob Kleinschmidt took fifth, although the cars of the two drivers hooked together in crossing the finish line.

Appleton's Ray Trudell was edged by Shawano's Willard Radandt in the semi-feature event.

At De Pere, Smith again beat Peters to the checkered flag as De Pere's Tom Van Driel wound up third. The race was a 25-lap event.

Trudell won the semi-feature, outdistancing Bonduel's Dean Moesch and Kewaunee's Les Moesch.

tion, for a berth behind one of the National Football League's most accomplished tandems, Gale Gillingham and Bill Lueck.
St. Norbert College immortal Larry (Moose) Krause and rugged Dave Smith, a 13-round draftee from Utah, are arrayed against an impressive group of veterans — Travis Williams, Donny Anderson, Perry Williams, Dave Hampton and Jim Grabowski.

Five or Six?
A major factor here will be whether Packer brain trusters decide to operate with five backs, a possibility, or keep six, as was the case a year ago.

There also is an imposing corp of kickers — veterans Booth Lusteg and Mike Mercer and rookies Joe Runk and Skip

Butler, the latter a fourth round draft choice.

Bengtson has not decided what course he will follow but it appears likely that only one of the quartet will be among the final 40. There is always the possibility, of course, that one of the others will be taxed.

With the status of veterans
Bart Starr and Don Horn already a certainty, the quarterback issue lies between long ball artist Bill Stevens, now in his third Packer season, and towering Frank Patrick, the impressive freshman from Nebraska.

It is a cozy, 2-man race at tight end between ex-Steelers
John Hilton and sophomore Ron Jones but they shortly will be joined by McGeorge. A year ago, the departed Marv Fleming was the only tight end on the roster — because Boyd Dowler also could be used there.

The fact that Dowler is no longer around obviously affects the strategy here and, as a result, also may have a bearing on the numbers elsewhere in the fringe makeup of the squad.

Defensively, the most sizeable when Shula delivered the news

Monday at the Dolphins' camp.
"I sincerely hope some team, some place will pick me up," Norton's collegiate career earned him the financial bundle on a four-year contract that ended with the 1969 season. He still will receive $15,000 annually for seven years beginning in 1975.

Became Symbol
It was Norton who became the uniformed symbol of George Wilson's coaching career at Miami, a 15-32 effort that ended with the former Detroit Lions boss firing in February.

They were sometimes cheered, but more often booed, during the expansion team's first seasons.

"Fans never got under my skin," claimed the 26-year-old Norton. "Fans are fans. They want winners."

Critics in the news media did rankle the handsome former Wildcat. He said Monday that Wilson, as his coach, "could have set people straight. It was his place to defend me, not mine."

Norton threw five times in Saturday night's 16-10 preseason triumph over Pittsburgh at Jacksonville. He completed one for six yards, two were intercepted and two fell incomplete.

"I played a lousy game," he admitted.

Shula plans to go with two quarterbacks during the regular season. He still has veterans Bob Griese and John Stofa and rookie Jessie Kaye. The experienced signal callers will likely be kept on the varsity while Kaye is placed on the taxi squad.

Norton completed only 41 percent of his passes in four seasons for six touchdowns in 377 throws. He was intercepted 30 times.

Danville Breaks Tie in Ninth

Foxes Lose, Duel Pilots In Home Stand Opener

DANVILLE, Ill. — The Appleton Foxes, living on borrowed time throughout the contest, yielded an unearned run in the ninth inning and lost to Danville, 2-1, Monday night.

Appleton dropped 2½ games behind Quincy in the Midwest League standings.

The Foxes return to Goodland Field tonight to face the Clinton Pilots. The game is billed as "Miller High Life Night," and free tickets are available at beverage stands throughout the area.
Many prizes, including a television set, will be awarded.

The Warriors rapped 10 hits off starter Steve Spanich and reliever Al Paganucci but went to second when Don Cunningham was safe at first on an error. Joe Bowen forced Cunningham at second while Cooper advanced to third. Cooper crossed the plate when Ron Davini was charged with a passed ball on Spanich's next delivery.

Bucky Dent, the only Appleton batter with a hit through the fifth inning, opened the sixth Sapp forced Singleton at second.

Oakland, Boston Win Lights Go Out For Pirates As Mets Score 10-2 Victory

BY DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

When the blackout finally was lifted at Pittsburgh, the lights went out for the Pirates.

New York's resilient Mets parlayed 10 hits, 11 walks and three Pittsburgh errors with the crisp pitching of Tom Seaver for a 10-2 victory Monday night in a game delayed 27 minutes at the

the majors, Oakland trimmed Minnesota 7-3 and Boston outlasted Detroit 11-10.

Fire Causes Trouble

After a fire broke out in the vicinity of the stadium, power lines controlling the lights were shut off as a precautionary measure as the Pirates trotted onto the field for the start of the game.

"The only time the lights ever went out on me before," said
New York Manager Gil Hodges,
"was when I was hit by a pitch in batting practice at Washington a couple of years ago."

The sudden blackout left Hodges, Seaver, Pirates' third base coach Dock Ellis and a crowd of 47,148 in the dark—in more ways than one.

"I wasn't sure what was going on," said the Met ace, who was to work with three days rest—instead of his normal four—for only the third time this year and had just completed his 20-minute pre-game warm-up. "I certainly didn't want to get pushed back because of something like that."

Eclipse Begins

When the lights came back on, the Pirates quickly set Seaver back, scoring twice with the help of three walks and Al Oliver's double.

Then the Pirates' eclipse began.

Two walks and a throwing error by first baseman Oliver on Seaver's potential inning-ending double play tap contributed to a five-run New York binge in the second.

Ellis went out for a pinch hitter in the bottom of the inning and Tommie Agee socked a two-run triple off reliever Dick Colpaert in the third. Colpaert and Jim Nelson then walked

Bears Add 3 More Players To Injured List

Buffone, Hazelton, Taylor Casualties in Houston Contest

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP) —
The Chicago Bears regrouped at their training camp Monday with three players added to the casualty list and possibly sidelined two or three weeks.

Injured in the Bears' 23-13 exhibition victory over the Oilers at Houston Saturday night were linebacker Doug Buffone and cornerbacks Joe Taylor and Major Hazelton.

Buffone has a slight shoulder separation, Taylor a kidney injury and Hazelton a groin injury.

Taylor stayed in Houston for precautionary treatment before rejoining the Bears who meet the Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee Saturday night.

Coach Jim Dooley said he plans to alternate Dan Pride and rookie Jimmy Gunn of Southern California in Buffone's spot. Replacements for Taylor and Hazelton are uncertain, although former Dallas Cowboy
get the call as Taylor's sub.

Dooley listed guard Howard Mudd, recovering from knee surgery, as a probable player for the Packer game. Four other offensive men are doubtful because of injuries—tackle Wayne Mass, fullback Ron Bull, tight end Jim Hester and fullback

reductions are likely to come in the front four and the secondary. The linebacking contingent is only one over its normal quota of five, with rookies Jim Carter (Minnesota) and Cleo Walker (Louisville) bidding to join veterans Ray Nitschke, Dave Robinson, Fred Carr and Jim Flanagan.

Up front, however, there is heavy traffic, if you will pardon the expression. Huge Mike McCoy only a one-game pro at this point, already has established himself in the front four, in company with two other imposing citizens, Bob Brown (6-foot-5 and 260) and Rich Moore (6-foot-2 and 275) and 8-year veteran Lionel Aldridge, a highly effective 6-foot-4 and 245.

This leaves a 4-way battle for the other two positions—the customary complement here is six—among veterans Phil Vandersea and Jim Weatherwax and rookies Larry Agajanian (ULCA) and Cecil Pryor (Michigan).

Similar Struggle

A similar struggle is under way at defensive back, where freshmen Leon Harden (Texas-El Paso), Ken Ellis (Southern University), Ervin Hunt (Fresno State) and Al Matthews (Texas A. & I.) are competing with returnee Gordon Rule to share the company of veterans Willie Wood, Doug Hart and Bob Jeter.

Benjton and his aides can take their time on the next personnel decisions. The roster presently is only six over the figure, 49, they must reach by Sept. 2. They will have to pare that total to 44 by Tuesday, Sept. 8, and finally, 40, by Sept. 15—the Tuesday before the first league game.

The Packers' current, position-by-position breakdown:

OFFENSE

Wide receivers — Carroll Dale, John Spills, Jack Clancy, Frank Foreman, Mike Carter, Terry Fredenberg.

Stick With The Champ, Joe Louis

The word, "champ" has come in for a good deal of misuse. Rotarians call each other "champ." Chamber of Commerce-types abuse it. People use it to summon bartenders. Backslappers throw it around like confetti.

To me, the word, "champ," denotes — and it always will — a tawny, lightning-reflexed young man out of Detroit in the 30s. His left was a blur. His right was an explosion. He knocked people kicking with-out changing expression. He looked at the world with sad, weary eyes.

They called him, in that more innocent — or more guilty, if you will — age, the "Brown Bomber," the "Dark Destroyer." Strong men turned to jelly when they fought him.

He wasn't a braggart. He went about his business with a "this is gonna hurt me more than it is you" expression. He seemed to pity his opponents.

He never made the mistake of equating a white man with the courage to climb in a 16-foot ring with him under blazing light with only a pair of shorts and a pair of gloves to protect him with a cowardly character who rode out of the night in a pack hidden by darkness and a bedsheet and armed with a rope and a gun.

'Lucky Night'

He never deliberately taunted, baited or tortured an opponent. He knocked them unconscious as quickly as he could, murmured, "Another lucky night," and left the ring, unsmiling, apparently unhappy. He never hurt anybody except in a ring. Plenty of people hurt him. He never said an unkind word about any of them.

This was "The Champ."

You better believe it. This was one of the most beautiful human beings who ever entered professional sports. This was a man who looked around a dressing room at a sniffling, sobbing, weeping crowd of people after a young bull from Brockton had half-killed him and knocked him unconscious and struggled, "I knocked out lots of people."

This was Joseph Louis Barrow. Occupation: Champion.

Way back in 1916, in a cotton patch in Lexington, Ala., Monroe Barrow, a giant of a man, melancholy, defeated by life, weary of trying to keep his tar paper shack and pitiful store of clothing and bedding suitable for a family of 10, cracked and was led away to the Searcy State Hospital for the Insane where he died over a year later.

He never knew that his 2-year-old son would go on to become the most famous black man in America or the world, would become the mightiest fistfighter the sport had ever seen, would make — and lose — several million dollars.

Cave of Fears

Today, Monroe Barrow's son is in a mental institution in Denver. Joe Louis Barrow didn't become violent, irrational, irritable or demonic. He just retreated into a cave of his own fears. Groundless fears. Joe is the same gentle giant he has always been. Joe Louis has finally found somebody to fear — Joe Louis. It is the one opponent he cannot take out in one round.

Is life that inescapable? Does this have to be? Does Monroe Barrow's son have to find the same exit from a harsh world as his daddy did?

Not if I can help it. We're all on trial here. If there's a man out there Joe Louis did an instant's harm to — aside from knocking him down at a pay rate of $200,000 a minute — you may be excused.

The rest of us should be advised that they are giving a "Salute To The Champ Joe Louis" Night in Detroit Wednesday, at Cobo Arena. Bill Cosby will emcee, Red Fox will make jokes, Mahalia Jackson will make great music. A lot of other groups will make noise.

If you can't be there, pass the buck. Put it in an envelope and mail it to Salute To The Champ, Joe Louis, care of Bank of the Commonwealth, P.O. Box 3156, Detroit, Mich. 48231.

The ring has left a lot of human debris around our country. But not The Champ. The count hasn't even reached 9. And Joe has gotten off the floor before.

Let's pull for one more lucky night. As they say in the fight game, always stick with The Champ.

Rudy Clay in Ring Return

Cassius' Brother Ends 5 Year Exile With Florida Bout

MIAMI (AP) — Shave the natty mustache and he's a double for older brother Cassius. Check the hotel register and he's Rahaman Ali. Boxing placards at Miami Beach Auditorium tell you the man is Rudolph Valentino Clay.

Rudy Clay returns to the ring tonight after a five-year layoff. He's a strapping 192-pounder, his handsome ebony features a matched set of the man now known as Muhammad Ali.

Rudy acted as Cassius' sparring partner through the championship years that ended with the older brother's last fight against Zora Foley in 1967. His untested ring record is 3-0.

Rudy, like Cassius, is a Black Muslim. He lives in Chicago with his wife, Sandra, and their two girls, Alecia, 3, and Satina, 18 months.

"I've made a good living lately selling appliances," said Rudy. "My job is with Polk Brothers, one of Chicago's largest chains. That's the reason my return to boxing isn't for the money."

Rudy claims Cassius "would love to box again, but he's frustrated by all the proposals that fell through for one reason or another."

Rudy says his ring maneuvers are similar to those of Cassius. "I hit and move," he said. "The object is to strike and not be struck."

Ernie Banks Stays On Disabled List

CHICAGO (AP) — First baseman Ernie Banks will remain on the Chicago Cubs' disabled list for two more weeks, the club announced Monday.

Banks was placed on the list three weeks ago because of an arthritic left knee.

Ring Doctor Says George Chuvalo Is Medical Risk

MONTREAL (AP) — George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champ, was singled out as a medical risk in a report Monday to the World Boxing Association presented by Dr. Leon Feldman, international medical adviser to the organization.

In recommending several stiff reforms, Dr. Feldman, of Asheville, N.C., suggested that Chuvalo be barred from the ring for his own good.

The medical adviser's recommendation, which is authoritative but not binding, followed the serious battering Chuvalo suffered Wednesday in New York by George Foreman. The fight was halted in the third round.

5 Killed in Auto Crash

2 Cars Plow Into Crowd at Start Of Swedish Race

KARLSKOGA, Sweden (AP) — Five spectators were killed and about 25 others injured Sunday when two cars plowed into the crowd at the start of a sports car race.

None of the injured was, considered in critical condition, but 15 were serious, hospital authorities said.

The two cars, both Ford Escorts, locked wheels at 60 miles per hour and crashe over a protecting wall at a bend on the first lap. About 100 spectators were gathered at that point.

The drivers were Pekka Virtanen of Finland, who reportedly suffered two broken legs, and Rune Tobiasson of Sweden, who escaped unhurt.

One eyewitness to the crash described the scene "like a battlefield. People tried to run, but the crowd was too packed. There was no chance for escape."

U. S. Yachtsmen Lead World Star Boat Test

MARSTRAND, Sweden (AP) — The Americans are another step nearer lifting the world star boat sailing championships from Sweden.

Four yachtsmen from the United States, Bill Buchan, Lowell North, Tom Blackaller and Barton Beek finished one, two, three, four in Monday's second race of the five-race championship series.

James Schoonmaker, who won the first race of the series on Sunday, finished sixth.

Other American finishes included Don Trask in 19th, Dick Stearns in 30th and Kim Fletcher in 32nd.

Buchan leads in the over-all standings after the two races with 100 points, just one ahead of Schoonmaker.

Stig Wennerstrom of Sweden in third over-all followed by Joerg Bruder of Brazil, V. Vasiliev of Russia and Beek.

Kids on Golf Course Not Dipping in Dope, Says Palmer

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — "I want to win the PGA, not with Texans Bobby Harwell and Ben Crenshaw, who tied for the low amateur in the U.S. Open, tournament just as important," and Oklahomans Mark DeBolt and Bruce Scott.

A crowd of 5,000 followed them over the Weeks Park Memorial Golf Course.

To Palmer's amazement, Harwell eagled the first hole and birdied the second.

Palmer jokingly gave him a long stare before teeing off on the next hole and Harwell proceeded to bogey two in a row. "That kid is great ... but I had to slow him down," laughed Palmer, who was even par over the holes played.

Roche Downs Laver in U.S. Pro Tourney

Tony Is Spoiler On Loser's 32nd Birthday in Upset

By DAVE O'HARA

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Tony Roche of Australia is the new champion of the U.S. Pro Tennis Tournament, but don't write off the king. Rod Laver is dethroned, but still the world ruler.

Roche, 25, spoiled his countryman Laver's 32nd birthday by rallying for a stunning 3-6, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2 victory Sunday in the championship windup of the $50,000 event at Longwood.

"All I have to say is that Tony doesn't have any respect for age," Laver said after failing in a bid for his fifth straight U.S. pro title and sixth in seven years.

Laver appeared en route to an easy victory after winning the third set. However, he elected to take a brief rest and, after a 15-minute intermission, Roche bounced back to virtually chase him off the synthetic court barked by a hot sun.

Went to Pieces

"I don't know what happened to Rod," Roche said. "I played well after the first set, but he just fell away. His game went to pieces. If you are not serving well, you are going to be in trouble. And he had trouble serving."

Despite his victory, Roche warned against writing off Laver, the undisputed king of world tennis who is the all-time top money winner.

"I think when he is playing well there isn't much I can do, or anyone else can do, against him," Roche said. "I think he has been having a little trouble with his hand the last couple of months, but I don't think there has been any deterioration in his game."

Roche collected $12,000 for his victory. Laver picked up $6,000, boosting his winnings for the year over $124,000, bettering the record of $123,431 he earned in 1969.

Laver and Aussie Roy Emerson also shared $2,000 for defeating Ismail El Shafai of the United Arab Republic and Denmark's Torben Ulrich 6-1, 7-6 in the doubles final. El Shafai and Ulrich settled for $1,000 runner-up money.

Served in Valley Father Victor Kaudy Dies in Wauwatosa

Wauwatosa — The Rev. Victor Joseph Kaudy, 77, who served the St. Mary Catholic Church, Wauwatosa for 41 years and St. Mary Catholic Church at Omro died here Monday at St. Camillus Home.

Father Kaudy had observed his 50th year of priesthood on May 12, 1968, and retired later that fall. He made his home at the St. Camillus Home in September, 1969.

Father Kaudy was a native of Oshkosh. He attended St. Vincent School and entered St. Lawrence College, Mt. Calvary, which now is St. Lawrence Minor Seminary. He later entered St. Paul Seminary in Minnesota, where he studied two years of philosophy and four years of theology.

He was ordained by Bishop Paul Rhide, in May, 1918, at St. Vincent Church, an unusual honor because ordination usually is administered either at the diocesan cathedral or in the seminary chapel.

Soon after ordination he was appointed assistant to the pastor of St. John Church, Green Bay, where he served until 1923 when he was named pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church, Custer, near Stevens Point and of St. Martin Church, Sharon, a mission church.

On May 14, 1927, he was transferred to Winneconne as pastor of St. Mary Church and of St. Mary Church at Omro. The Omro church was then a mission church.

Father Kaudy supervised remodeling of both churches, and in 1949 the Omro church was made a separate parish.

A parish hall was added in 1954 to serve the Winneconne church.

Father Kaudy retired in 1968. He is survived by a sister.

The body will lie in state Thursday at 2 p.m. at St. Mary Catholic Church, Men's and women's organizations of the church will hold vigil from 2 p.m. Thursday until 2:30 p.m. Friday.

The Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of the Green Bay diocese, will participate in a concelebrated mass at 2:30 p.m. Friday at St. Mary Catholic Church by the Rev. Walter Williams, the Rev. Alan Jirko-vec, the Rev. Eugene Schmidt, and the Rev. Robert Thompson. Burial will be in Riverside Cemetery.

Police & Fire Beat

A 60-day term in the Outagamie County jail was ordered Monday by County Judge Gustave J. Keller for Charles P. Herrmann, 22, 1916 N. Harrison St., on a charge of driving after revocation.

Herrmann, who would have had a trial, was not present in court Monday. Keller issued a warrant for his arrest.

Appleton police brought the count June 28 at State and Lawrence streets at 7 p.m. Keller noted it was Herrmann's second conviction on the charge. Herrmann lost the privilege to drive for another year.

KIMBERLY — Kimberly police are investigating a break-in and theft of $137 from Gerry's Lanes, N. Main Street, Thursday night.

Gerald Thiel, owner of the bowling alley, reported that a case of whiskey was found at the rear of the establishment, and that he then investigated inside. Police said entry was apparently gained by breaking off the lock to the door of the furnace room, gaining entrance to the bar.

Creative Communications Funding Backed for UWGB

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Planning funds for the College of Creative Communications at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay should be released but final bids on the total project should not be accepted until the State Building Commission approves, a subcommittee had agreed.

The action came from the university affairs subcommittee of the state building agency, which also gave final approval to the student activities building proposed for the campus and recommended that two additional land parcels be purchased for the school.

Headed by State Rep. David O. Martin, R-Neenah, the subcommittee approved the release of funds for the planning of the first and second phases of the college building, but directed the UW not to accept bids until the second phase until the committee has a chance to review them. The second phase has not been specifically approved by the legislature, said Martin.

The total project has been planned at a cost of $5,325,000. Martin said, as well, that questions he had about the activities building have been answered and that the project should go ahead.

His subcommittee recommended to the full commission that the school be allowed to purchase a lot on the Green Bay shore, consisting of about 200 feet of shoreline, and several buildings, at a price of $19,550. The land has been appraised at $22,000. Martin's unit was told of the purchase will leave about $85,000 in a special $200,000 fund allocated by the 1969 Legislature for such purchases.

'Hidden' Scholarships Deserve Investigation

By SYLVIA PORTER

These are the crucial weeks for college loans — when students and their parents are eagerly and quite possibly frantically seeking funds to finance the trek back to school. Now is when you need all the guidance you can get.

It's against this background that I ask: are you aware that Social Security benefits are a major source for aid to students? Could it be that you're among the many qualifying for such benefits today but you don't know it?

Do you realize that veterans' educational benefits are being paid to 730,000 college students — and that 45,000 veterans' wives, widows and children are also receiving college benefits?

Who Is Eligible?

More than $12 billion a year is being distributed to eligible college students under these two programs alone. In contrast, 320,000 scholarships being awarded by U. S. colleges have a value of only $130 million.

Also, the average yearly stipend under the Social Security and veterans' programs is about $1,000 — in contrast to a little more than $400 for the average college scholarship.

Who's eligible today for benefits?

Porter

fits under these programs? What are other significant "hidden" sources of college scholarships?

Right now, about 500,000 young men and women are getting Social Security benefits to help pay colleges costs. All of you who are unmarried, full-time students qualify for this program and its monthly benefits — if you are children of deceased, disabled or retired workers. Check at once at your nearest Social Security office.

Under the Veterans Readjustment Benefit Act of 1965 (the "Cold War GI Bill"), single veterans who have been at some time on active duty since 1955 are now being paid $175 a month if they attend an accredited college or other educational institution. If you are a veteran and married, you also may get, as a result of a new round of raises passed by Congress early this year, $206 a month. If you are a veteran with a wife and one child, you may get $230 a month — and $3 for each additional child. Stipends are reduced for veterans studying less than full time. For example, your monthly benefits if you are a single half-time student is $81 ($100 if you are married).

You, as a veteran, can get these "scholarships," not only to attend college, but also to complete high school if you have not already done so; to attend business school; or to enroll in a wide variety of vocational training programs.

In addition, under the so-called "Junior GI Bill," if you are a wife, widow or child of a veteran who died or became permanently and totally disabled as a result of his military service, you can get similar monthly stipends to attend college.

Campus Jobs

A third "scholarship" source which most Americans tend to underestimate is jobs on campus. Even at such institutions as Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard, 50 to 60 per cent of all undergraduates hold jobs during the school year.

Today more than 5 million U. S. students are earning more than half of their total instructional costs at private colleges and one-third of these costs at public colleges. The typical part-time job at college now pays between $400 to $800.

Meanwhile, co-operative education programs — under which students alternate periods of study with periods of work in their field of interest — are multiplying. Some 70,000 college students at 136 colleges the nation over are now earning more than $125 million toward their college costs — or an average of about $1,800 a year.

And under the federally-backed work-study program, some 375,000 needy students are earning an average of $411 a year.

If you are among the millions caught in the tight college cost squeeze, make sure you don't overlook these "hidden," "scholarship" sources.

If you think you might qualify for Social Security benefits, inquire immediately about your possible eligibility at your local Social Security office.

And, remember — both parents and students — if you hold a job on campus today, you're "in."

No Occasion to Celebrate

The anniversary last week of the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima and three days later one on Nagasaki is hardly an occasion to celebrate anywhere.

Today it seems almost impossible to conceive that the United States could do such a thing, wiping out hundreds of thousands of civilians in one blast and seriously injuring others, perhaps genetically. No one really knew what the long range effects of atomic radiation could mean. But we were engaged in a bitter war and, unlike our current conflict in Vietnam, we had been badly hurt. There was the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. There was the Bataan death march and confirmed atrocities by the Japanese all through the Pacific. And we had been consistently firebombing major Japanese cities for months in acts of pure terrorism. World War II was a war of deep hatreds and fears and mercy is not likely to accompany those emotions.

Any war is a failure of diplomacy, particularly in this era of weapons of truly unimaginable power. Strong factions in Japan were actually trying to find a way to end the war soon after the surrender of Germany in June. Unfortunately they decided to try to go through the Soviet Union, which was not yet at war with them, to sound out the United States. But unknown to the Japanese, Stalin at Yalta had pledged to enter the war against Japan once the European situation stabilized. The Russians didn't bother to mention the Japanese peace feelers to the United States officials. When it became apparent that Japan must sue for peace even under the terms of unconditional surrender, the Soviets hopped into the war for the long length of time of six days. This guaranteed to them the Kurile Islands and the opportunity to move into Manchuria.

The victory over Japan was due to many factors—the dreadful island by island struggles in hand-to-hand combat in the Pacific, the simple fact of the ability for greater production in the United States and our invulnerability to direct attack except for Hawaii and the Philippines. But it was the massive American air power that finally laid Japan low. Ironically, as Theodore White points out in an article in the Atlantic, "Episode in Tokyo Bay," "it was the supreme moment of Air Power, and all Japan was in ruins . . . The memory of that power would seduce America to disaster in Asia in decades later; for such planes would be useless in the wars we were yet to face, which would be political wars. But we had no sense, then, or later, of the nature of politics in Asia."

And now Japan ranks third in the world in industrial production. Some economists predict that it will pass the United States by the year 2,000. The recent talks with the United States over tariffs and quotas which broke off in June with no agreement are indications that Japan is feeling itself strong enough economically to risk thumbing its nose, politely of course, at the United States. But it is still not ready or willing to do without our military protection.

World War II in the Pacific at least was a sad commentary upon the lack of understanding between East and West. Perhaps looking back on the Pearl Harbor attack and the dropping of the atomic bombs we can realize how important is the need for deeper efforts at such understanding.

Taxes Here and There

The always useful periodical of the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance provides the latest available comparison of the weight and method of taxation by the state government with the levies of its sister states.

Unfortunately, in the collection of statistics on such matters there is an inevitable lag. Thus the Alliance bulletin covers 1969, and Wisconsin with many of the other states of the country, made adjustments in revenue policy to accommodate the expansion of governmental services and the inflation of normal public service costs in legislative sessions held since the collection of the data cited. Wisconsin, for example, enlarged its sales and excise tax program relatively late in the year, so that the comparisons in the Alliance study are probably no longer precisely accurate.

Nevertheless, it is unlikely that the adjustments here and elsewhere were sufficient to alter the basic contrast, between the state revenue policies of Wisconsin and those of most of the other states in the country and, notably, in the strongly contrasting reliance placed upon two major and common sources the individual income tax and the sales tax.

In 1969 general sales taxes accounted for about 30 per cent of the gross tax receipts of the states of the country, by far the largest amount from any source.

In Wisconsin during that year, the sales tax yielded less than 11 per cent of gross state treasury revenues, in sharp contrast.

J. Dundon Blast Furnace Head

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Aug. 13, 1870.

We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. James Dundon a few days since, a gentleman who is in charge of the mechanical department of the Blast Furnace being erected in our City (Appleton).

Mr. Dundon has had charge of a Blast Furnace belonging to Mr. Donkersley, in the Lake Superior country for the last three years, and is one of seven brothers engaged in the same business.

Mr. D. is a man of extensive experience and is thoroughly familiar with everything pertaining to a Blast Furnace. He is about to remove his family to this place and will soon become one of us.

25 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Aug. 7, 1945.

Maj. Richard Ira Bong, of Poplar, Wis., America's aerial ace of aces, died that day when his jet P-40 Shooting Star exploded on a test flight at Burbank, Calif. He had downed 46 Japanese planes in more than 500 combat hours. He had been a test pilot since July 9 for the Army Technical Service.

Miss Alice Wilson, route 1, New London, was named camp nurse and Miss Ellen Smith, New London, a counsellor for the Menasha Girl Scouts vacationing at Twin Lakes, Waupaca.

Sgt. Jesse B. Baird, Oneida, was cited for gallantry in action at great risk to his life the previous December in Belgium. Maj. Gen. Leland S. Hobbs, commanding general of the 30th Infantry Division, made the presentation of the Silver Star Medal to Sgt. Baird. The Outagamie County soldier made three trips with others in his company to evacuate 20 wounded soldiers under enemy fire.

Seven college and university students were winding up the summer's earn-while-you-learn program at the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company. The employees

Jake Mathews, golf professional at Riverview Country Club, was honored in recognition for his 25 years at the Club.

John Herziger, Menasha, won the first place trophy in the all-city crafts show. John had made a mask. Second place blue ribbons went to Connie Koerner and Kathy Reuch for their hat creations.

You Have to Give Chavez Credit for Grape Victory

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

The Cesar Chavez people appear to have won their fight to unionize the grape-pickers in Southern California, and it is worth a moment to meditate on the means through which they succeeded in winning, and the consequences of their victory.

1. It is easy enough to say simply that it cannot be other than glad tidings that the grape-pickers in Southern California will be earning 20 per cent more than they earned before. But of course there are those who will remind themselves that economics doesn't work that way, else—for instance—we would send Cesar Chavez to India, to call for a general strike because, over there, the hourly pay of a Ph.D. is less than the hourly pay of a grape-picker in Southern California.

The emotional difficulty with any discussion in this area is obvious. If it is established that the hourly pay of the grape-picker in Southern California is say $1.67, the temptation is to say that so insufficient a wage ought not to be condoned. But the free market does not dispose of moral judgments. The question has been whether a) you permit migrant workers, many of whom come in from Mexico, to continue to work at a price which is acceptable to employer and employees; or b) you simply forbid said workers to come in to work at wages we consider to be too low.

Law of Economics
The trouble with siding automatically with the apparently benevolent side of this argument is simply this: if the price of labor is raised, by political pressures, say by 50 per cent, then of course the extra cost is passed along to the grape buyers. Since the desire for grapes is not inflexible, it follows that there will be those who reject the new price; and their rejection will mean, according to the terms of the economic argument, very simply: fewer grapes sold, fewer migratory workers hired.

Buckley

2. But even if in the long run the grape-pickers lose, you have to hand it to Cesar Chavez, who succeeded in intimidating everybody you ever heard of not to buy California grapes. Indeed, non-California - grape-eating was indisputably the single most important thing that a lot of people, primarily eastern seaboard blue bloods, were able to manage during 1969-1970.

Mr. Chavez's campaign was effective, reaching even to the airlines, although their boycott was less than candid. TWA—for instance—reported through a vice president to one inquirer last May that although it theoretically isn't proper for an airline to take sides on a political controversy, "We were well aware that this is a case where, in effect, one can take sides by inaction as well as action." The solution? " . . . We had decided to remove fruit baskets from our domestic flights on June 15th. We will substitute a so-called Fruit Bowl au Kirsch; grapes will not be utilized in this concoction."

Gets Another Answer
A few weeks later another vice president of TWA wrote to a different inquirer, "I . . . appreciate this opportunity to discuss the reports which appeared in the press to the effect that TWA was 'boycotting' grapes. The change which apparently gave rise to this erroneous and unfortunate report involved, among other things, the substitution of a so-called Fruit Bowl au Kirsch for a fresh fruit tray which we had been offering under the previous menu. The recipe for this fruit bowl was developed in an effort to make the dish taste good; that was the only criterion used in its development. The fruit tray for which it substituted included, in addition to grapes, things like oranges, apples, pears, and bananas."

So that, depending on what you want to hear, official A says: we're cutting down on grapes, because if we use grapes we are in effect siding with the pro-grape people; and official B of the same company says: You're crazy if you think our non-grape position has anything to do with Cesar Chavez.

3. Will Mr. Chavez now rest? Or will he move on to unionize farm workers in general? If he calls for the poor general boycott, the poor people in Southampton—and in TWA—may find that they are reduced to a diet of Fruit Bowl au Kirsch made up exclusively of grapes.

Wisconsin Report Chances for Any Tax Redistribution Plan Are Still Very Slight

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A dutiful statehouse sideline is constrained to note even at the risk of ennuoi on the part of many persons indifferent about the issue, that there appears very little hope for a change of heart among the power blocs in legislative politics on distributing local shares on state levied taxes

according to a formula that would be more equitable, at best, or remove some of the most glaring inequities, at the least.

The story was pretty plainly told the other day when patient Sen. Walter Hollander, chairman of the legislature's Finance Committee, put together an ad hoc committee of half a dozen legislators and the chief spokesmen of the diametrically opposing point of view among the municipalities of the state and sat them down for a discussion of alternatives or modifications of the celebrated Tarr Commission report of a year ago.

That proposal for a new distribution formula was casually, almost insultingly, repudiated by the Wisconsin Senate. But such lobbies as the Alliance of Cities and a few others are committed to continue the campaign for reform—as they call it, in the profound conviction that their cause is just.

Has Little Chance
A futile day-long wrangle broadly indicated that unless there is the kind of upset election in November that cannot now be reasonably predicted, the basic Tarr Commission goal has only a negligible chance of acceptance in the next legislature.

About the only meaningful component of the Tarr tax distribution plan that may be salvaged, probably in a watered down form, is the issue of utility tax distribution. The bonanza provided for a few localities under existing law, combined with the circumstance that the industry is now turning to nuclear generation plants involving enormous investment, has attracted so much attention through constant repetition that the legislature will probably be obliged to take another look at the issue.

Corroboration was supplied by the Hollander committee when Mayor William Dyke of Madison, acting for the Alliance, persuaded it to review that issue—alone of all the distribution questions that were treated in the Tarr Commission's studious and laborious labors.

By No Means Certain
Yet even here it is by no means certain, or even probable, that a perfectly equal system of apportioning utility taxes will be provided, for several reasons that seemed plausible enough to listeners.

First, the smaller municipal jurisdictions have some reasonable arguments, even as have their foes. As on many other public problems, the fact that there are few blacks and whites in politics makes the decision difficult for the conscientious person—and doubly difficult for the official who has constituents directly affected one way or the other. The towns make a reasonably plausible argument when they say that there is no reason in logic why they should not have some prior claim on the property tax equivalent of a utility plant as they have on other forms of real property.

The cities assert that it is absurd to permit the towns to own a gold mine, in the figurative sense, while they are choking on their financing problems.

Issue Easily Grasped
The chances are that public opinion is leaning toward the city viewpoint, on this more easily grasped issue in the general tax distribution quarrel. Utility taxes are paid by the consumers of power, most of them far removed from the precincts of the town. A utility involves less commitment of funds for services in the locality of its domicile than would a factory, or a big merchandising center, or other property of comparable dimensions and value.

The committee was told that 20 per cent of the power consumer's bills is represented in the utility's tax payments, much of it for the property tax that is paid to the residents of the locality that happens to have it within its tax base.

Here there should be room for compromise. But there may be some booby traps. The committee heard complaints that the electrical cooperatives, taxed differently, are billing their customers for only three per cent in tax equivalent. If the cooperatives are involved in the fight, it will be a dangerous new roadblock to compromise.

Strictly Personal Sensitivity Training Is Sensitive Subject

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Many readers have written in lately to ask my opinion of those "sensitivity training" groups and classes that are springing up all over the country.

Well, I don't have an "opinion," for an opinion (to mean anything) has to be based on firsthand knowledge and close study; but I do have a prejudice, for whatever it may be worth.

The idea of sensitivity training is an excellent and long overdue one. The Western world has for centuries been cut off from its physical and sensory roots, has been to verbal, too mental, too abstract.

We need to understand and use our bodies more effectively, for expression and for communication. We need to become more aware of our sensory needs, and ways of relating more basically and intimately to others. As a whole culture, we are what the youngsters call "uptight."

But—and this is a very important qualification—such bodily awakening and education must be supervised by the most skillful and conscientious of leaders, who are as fully aware of the dangers as they are of the benefits of sensitivity training. When you start messing around with the homeostasis of the human personality, you had better know which buttons to push in case of emergency.

From what I have read and noted—all secondhand information—it seems more likely than not that we are moving too fast, on too many fronts at once, with too few qualified guides, into this delicate realm.

Being a nation of faddists and quick-result optimists, we tend to look for Instant Joy or Meaningful Change simply by practicing some technique for a few weeks that takes a guru a whole lifetime to assimilate and master. Americans are inveterate suckers for new promises.

Even assuming that sensitivity training can do as much for its adherents as it promises, the need for educated, experienced and high-minded leaders is greater than in almost any other field I can imagine. For the possibility of doing harm—and sometimes irreparable harm—to an unstable personality is at least as great as the danger of an intern performing a complex brain surgery.

In too many cases, those entering sensitivity training programs are looking for shortcuts to gratification, for a therapy that will avoid the time, expense and effort of conventional psychotherapy or psychoanalysis. They will not find it here, of course—for joy is to be found neither in the body nor in the mind, but in the ever-changing equilibrium between the two, acting in concert for the good of the greater whole, for which no better word has been coined than "spirit."

House Gives Equal Rights Strong Okay

Women's Bill Still Faces Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., 82 and Martha Griffiths is counting on a man, an agreement for the committee to return it to the Senate for action.

Some of the amendment's backers have feared the committee's conservatives might hold it up indefinitely.

The Democratic leader said it was even possible the equal rights amendment might be combined with one on direct election of presidents also scheduled for Senate floor debate later this session.

Game of Politics

Other backers are not so optimistic about chances of the amendment. Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., who says she has felt more prejudice as a woman than as a Negro, is fearful that men who run the game of politics still may block the proposal.

She cited, for example, Rep. D-Miss., the Judiciary chairman, an agreement for the committee to return it to the Senate for action.

Opposing Votes

WASHINGTON AP — Among the 15 congressmen voting Monday against a proposed constitutional amendment concerning equal rights for women were Rep. Glenn R. Davis and Rep. John W. Byrnes, both Wisconsin Republicans.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., was not recorded as having voted.

The seven other Wisconsin members of the House voted for the amendment, which was sent to the Senate on a 346-15 roll call.

Senate where possibly fatal delays await the proposal. And after that, the amendment must be approved by 38 of the 50 legislatures before becoming a part of the Constitution.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., told newsmen he would try to work out a procedure to assure Senate action on the amendment this year.

Normal Procedure

He said it was his plan to intercept the measure when it arrives at the Senate from the House and not let it go immediately to the Judiciary Committee as would be the normal procedure.

Then he said he would discuss with Sen. James O. Eastland, Strong Support for equality for women is no indication of a lack of femininity, as Rep. Martha Griffiths proves when she stops to powder her face Monday after the House overwhelmingly approved the proposed women's rights amendment to the Constitution.

Fears Mount for Guerrilla Captives

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The murder of a kidnapped U.S. official and a new execution threat increased fears today for the lives of Brazilian consul and an American agricultural expert still held by the Tupamaro guerrillas.

A local radio station reported early today that a body had been found near a beachside avenue and possibly was that of the Brazilian diplomat. Police and soldiers searched the area but reported they found no body.

The leftist Tupamaros abducted U.S. police adviser Dan A. Mitrone and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide on July 31 and demanded the release of all political prisoners in Uruguay as ransom. The government refused to deal with the kidnappers, and Mitrone was found shot to death early Monday in an abandoned stolen car.

Execution Threat

A Uruguayan television station received a note Monday saying the kidnappers would execute Daisias Gomide at midnight if the estimated 150 political prisoners were not freed. Government security agencies refused to confirm the authenticity of the note, and the deadline passed with no word from the kidnappers.

The note did not mention Fly.

Congress met in special session Monday and approved President Jorge Pacheco Areco's request for suspension of all individual civil rights for 20 days. This gives the police more for the kidnappers and their hostages, which already has resulted in the capture of 100 suspects and several top Tupamaro leaders.

Congress declared Monday a day of mourning for Mitrone, and all businesses and offices were closed. The streets of the capital were deserted Monday night except for heavily armed policemen and soldiers making the search.

After Mitrone's body was found, Dias Gomide's wife made an emotional radio appeal to the government and people of Uruguay. Sobbing, she said the guerrillas had told her in a message to urge the public to gather in front of Government House and demand that the president free the political prisoners.

Friends and Neighbors

PAYSON, Utah (AP) — The residents of this small northern Utah town have dusted off the Old West custom of "house-raising" to show their appreciation for a Utah Highway patrolman paralyzed by gunshot wounds last fall.

The majority of Payson's 4,300 residents have donated either money or labor to the construction of a specially equipped, $40,000 home for Charles Warren, said Boyd Anderson, director of the project.

Warren was shot twice in the head last Sept. 2 when he stopped a stolen car. He is now a paraplegic, confined to a wheelchair.

Something Special

"When Chuck was shot, the people of Payson were determined to do something special to show how much they respected and liked him," Anderson said.

"We decided on a new home when we found out that the split-level house Chuck now owns is not well-suited for a paraplegic."

Construction of the four-bedroom home began July 23 and is expected to be completed by mid-September.

It is specially equipped for occupation by a person confined to a wheelchair. It has built-in physical therapy equipment, extra-large bathrooms and bedrooms and enlarged door openings.

Residents contributed enough money to buy a vacant lot. An architect from nearby Provo donated the plans.

Volunteer Help

"It's amazing to see Chuck's friends and neighbors turn out by the tens and twenties each day to help pound nails and lay concrete," said Anderson, an industrial arts high school teacher who is spending full time on the project.

As one volunteer worker helped pour the cement floor of the basement, he commented: "It's just like frontier days everybody pitched in to help build a new home for their neighbors and didn't ask anything in return."

"Several are putting in a few hours before or after their regular jobs," Anderson said, "and some are spending their vacation time here."

Harold Harmer, a Mormon Church lay leader in Payson, said the project has brought the town closer together.

"We wanted to show our appreciation to Chuck for his dedication as a lawman, and we wanted to develop a greater respect for all law officers and what they do for us," Harmer said.

Warren's wife says she and her husband were stunned by the reaction of their fellow townspeople.

"We always have had faith in other people," she says, "but we had no idea that they would do this much for us."

however, seem unperturbed by the stench of the sun-baked debris that piled up while 100,000 persons camped at the site. (AP Wirephoto)

Brandt Flies To Moscow to Sign Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt flew off to Moscow today to sign a treaty with the Soviet Union after his plane was delayed for nearly two hours by a telephone call that a bomb was aboard. No bomb was found.

Ruediger Von Weichmar, government spokesman, said the plane was in takeoff position when "two security guards came from the cockpit and told us that we must disembark because there was a bomb scare."

He reported a man called from a telephone booth and said: "There's a bomb aboard the chancellor's plane. Watch out."

The plane was immediately surrounded by fire engines and police. Airport buses were brought up for the chancellor and his party to take them to a lounge.

"There was no panic. We took it in good humor—there are always nits around," Von Weichmar said.

Earlier an Interior Ministry spokesman had said the plane had begun rolling down the runway when it was stopped. This was later cleared up when it appeared he meant the plane had rolled to its takeoff position.

Student Predictions

More Campus Activism Seen

By GALE TOLLIN
Associated Press Writer

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The president of the National Student Association predicted today the coming academic year will see an increase in campus activism, "much tougher and much more locally centered."

Charles Palmer said in an interview he couldn't anticipate the specific patterns of increased student protest. But he said he was sure much effort would be directed against the Vietnam war, racism, pollution and corporations which manufacture war goods or contribute to contamination of the environment.

U.S. military involvement in Cambodia this year made college people "a little harder, a little tougher, a little more cynical about the responsiveness of the political system, a little more cynical about how the political protester is dealt with in this country," said Palmer, of East Los Angeles, Calif.

Next year will see a redoubling of activism," said the 23-year old graduate of the University of California at Berkeley. The NSA is holding its annual congress here.

The NSA says it has chapters on 500 college and university campuses and claims to be the nation's largest student organization. Its membership is counted by chapter, rather than by student.

But he said there is bound to be activity against government, and it may include some directed at state governments, at mayors and at campus administrations. It will all depend upon what issues arise, Palmer said.

Spread the Word

Without recommending any cooling of campus activism, Palmer said the time has come for students to go to their home communities and elsewhere to spread word of what they've been doing. The generation gap is widening, he said, and communication is important.

"I think one of the real crises facing students the next couple years is how to build and broaden their base, how to get out to other people, how to understand what other people are doing and how to make understood what student interests are."

"Most students have been away from home for a while," he said. "They don't know about the insecurity of being laid off, or the insecurity of a big doctor bill. They don't really sense, nearly as directly as their parents, the effects of the present recession. Students are sort of on a dole. We get a fixed amount from home, and our folks suffer, or we get it from the university. . . . These are things we've got to deal with."

Deep Scowls

A rapid talker, Palmer wore blue jeans, a green shirt and—unlike many NSA delegates—shoes. His full mustache drooped. His black hair is a bit scraggly, but not very long by the standards of today's youth. His smiles are faint, his scowls are deep.

The generation gap is increasing, he said, in the sense that "awareness" spreads much faster among students than in other parts of society. He said students are much less fatalistic about what can be done or can't be done.

"More and more college people are thinking in terms of 'let's do it' instead of 'don't tell me it can't be done.' They want to change things around," he said. "People don't want to become pawns for someone else's ego."

How about charges that campus unrest is Communist supported?

Palmer said his group, the NSA, "has no backing from anybody except for a couple grants from foundations."

He said that talk of Communist support is rather irrelevant anyway.

Responsive to Students

"It shouldn't be a question of who we're backed by as long as we're responsive to the students," he said. "The students of the colleges and universities set our policies."

Palmer also had these observations: "Drugs—They have become a factor on campus. A whole new culture has developed around drugs. The laws are terrible, and enforcement of the laws is terrible."

Indochina: "The whole situation . . . is approaching the point where there is no middle ground. We've got to get out! We're not really welcome there."

Repression: "In terms of political repression, there has been an increase" since Richard M. Nixon became President.

Universities: "It's time for universities to start turning out people less professionally oriented and more people oriented."

Mayor Defends Engineer's Pay Raise

WAUPACA — The sizable increase in annual salary from $13,800 to $18,000 for city engineer and director of public works Iver Oerter granted by the city council on Aug. 14 sent a whirlwind of rumors flying through the city.

Mayor Edward Kramer, who supported the action to retain Oerter, received the brunt of the discussion and a number of anonymous telephone calls and notes. After reweighing all of the facts in the case, Kramer has issued a public statement in an effort to clarify the facts and merits of the decision.

Kramer prepared the following statement Monday:

"During the first part of last week, your city government was suddenly faced with the necessity of making a very important decision," he began. "That decision was made and I agree with it."

Anonymous Calls

"As a result I have been engaged in much meaningful discussion but I have also received a couple of anonymous phone calls and notes. My policy is normally to not engage in communication with someone who does not identify himself."

"However, I was intrigued by a new word that was in one note—a word that I hadn't seen before. The word was pusillanimous."

"According to my dictionary it means lacking strength of mind, courage or spirit... mean spirited, cowardly, characterized by weakness or purpose or lack of courage. The word was used to describe the aldermen on one side of the issue. However, in my judgment, the pusillanimous people are the ones who communicate with their city officials anonymously. They are the ones who are chicken to identify themselves—the pusillanimous people."

Taking up both sides of the issue, Kramer goes on to explain what happened.

"On Monday, Aug. 3, City Engineer Oerter had made the decision to move from Waupaca and accept a job in a St. Paul suburb of 25,000 people. Besides a higher salary, he would have working under him another engineer, two draftsmen and a secretary, plus he would have nothing to do with the water department as he does in Waupaca.

Fewer Duties

"There would also have been fewer duties in regard to the sewer services," Kramer continues. "Here, he has only a secretary. Some members of the public works board got wind of Iver's decision on Sunday and gave me a call and expressed their concern over the possibility of losing his services, especially at this time."

"I talked with him on Monday for nearly an hour. He agreed to talk it over with his wife and possibly reconsider. He also agreed to meet with some members of the public works board in the early afternoon. At the afternoon meeting he announced that he was staying in Waupaca."

Municipalities Rap County Park System

Opposition in Outagamie Unanimous

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Feelings expressed by local municipalities Monday night about having Outagamie County operate all parks within the county were unanimous.

No one favored it.

But after trampling the Outagamie County Board's Parks and Recreation Committee in the dust of opposition, the city, village and town officials agreed the Parks Committee was doing a good job and had something to offer their communities.

About a dozen local governmental units from throughout the county were represented at an informal public hearing called by the county committee to determine if there was interest in a county park system.

Supv. Nick Karras, Appleton, chairman of the committee, said it wanted to establish whether or not there was a need for total county operation of parks and, if there was, how this best could be established.

The discussion never got to the second question.

Unanimous Opposition

While there was unanimous opposition, there was a call for better communication between the various local governments and the county.

James Mead, chairman of the Town of Grand Chute's park commission and a member of the Fox Valley Council of Government's (COG) park planning unit, said there was a need for dialogue between the county and its subunits.

Grand Chute Town Chairman Ira Livingston said the county could serve best as a coordinator. He added the town works with the Appleton Park Commission to avoid duplication and suggested the county could coordinate efforts of all the communities.

County Administrator Alvin Woehler said it appeared each community was looking for a means of communication and he hoped the meeting would help develop it. "We have to start to coordinate in many areas," he said.

The lineup of opposition ranged from Appleton on down to the small towns.

Buckley Concedes

Appleton Mayor George Buckley, who originally had suggested the city turn its parks over to the county, conceded the city council would follow the recommendation of the city's Park and Recreation Commission.

Ralph Gertsch, chairman of the commission, left no doubt where he stood but then suggested the county levy a park tax to help the local communities run their parks.

Supv. Marvin Babbitt, representing Seymour Mayor Chris Roepke; Town of Greenville Chairman Rudolph Spreeman; Town of Freedom Chairman George Schroeder; Mrs. Walter Schoenrock, New London Park

Commission; Supv. Henry Breitling, speaking for Bear Creek; Supv. Sylvester Lenz, for Kimberly, and Mayor Gilbert Anderson, Kaukauna, all expressed opposition to having their parks taken over by the county.

The story was basically the same in each community: land had been donated to the community for park purposes and had been developed through donations and volunteer labor.

Livingston, expressing what others also said, contended eliminating local control of parks would kill the local interest.

"Won't Donate Time"

"You won't find people willing to donate their time, money and land in a large system," he said. He suggested the county stick to area-type parks and let the local communities run their own smaller parks.

Arno Haering, regional planning director for COG, also agreed that a two-level park system might be more feasible in the county. "It may be difficult," he said, "to impose one system throughout the county."

The major problem, he noted, was that most of the park demand was in the one corner of the county.

Erik Madison Jr., editor of Park Maintenance magazine, suggested that at present the county really has nothing to offer the local communities.

"The next step for the county," he said, "is to either create a park commission or hire a professional park administrator. The county is in worse shape than anybody to take over the parks," he said.

"I just wanted your coming comments on the alternatives," Horst said. "Look them over, study them. I know that you will have changes and suggestions."

He added that after planning questions are "ironed out" by the board, they will go to the advisory committee and then to the staff. "When we feel it is ready for the general public, we will print the studies and get all information out to everyone in the district," Horst said.

In other business, the board approved the purchase of a 50 cubic foot refrigerator and a 50 cubic foot freezer. Low bidder on the appliances at $782 for the refrigerator and $933 for the freezer was Kessling Co. of Milwaukee.

Rental of the 100-acre district-owned Clarence Mueller site was awarded to Melvin Mueller, route 1, for one year at $25 per acre.

Authorization was given to borrow up to $500,000 at 5 1/2 per cent for current operational expenses.

Chilton Sites Board Hears Four Plans for Providing School Facilities

CHILTON — A rough outline of four alternatives for providing additional school facilities was given recently to the board of education by A. J. Horst, board president.

Horst's alternatives were:

- Expansion on the present site on Park Street and School Court.
- Use of the entire district-owned Mueller site on the city's west side.
- Use of both sites.
- Entire use of the present school site, including nearby private homes owned by the district.

Horst told the board that he made up the four alternatives using the Max Anderson Associates enrollment projections to 1,400 or more students. He also based his plans on half of that figure, claiming that projections don't always work out to the estimated figure.

He worked out costs of each of the plans and a mill rate based on the equalized valuation of district property.

Cost figures used in the plans were based on the architect's estimates.

Other officers elected Monday are Richard Kilsdonk, Little Chute, vice chairman, and James Kluge, Kimberly, treasurer. Kenneth Poppy, CESA-8 coordinator, is secretary, as statute provides.

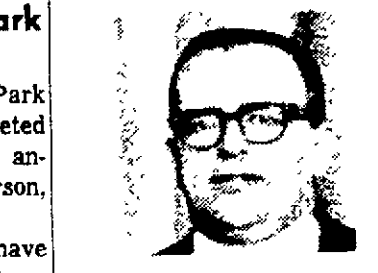

Elected as voting members of the 11-man board are Joseph Peeters, Clintonville; Cy Weyenberg, Freedom; Roger Wehling, Hortonville; Gordon Lamers, Kaukauna; John Ricker, Menasha; Frank Hochholzer, Neenah; Claude Thomson, Oshkosh; and George Dobberke Jr., Winneconne.

Appleton Man With Record Took Trailer, Two Snowmobiles

Outagamie County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren sentenced Donald Johnson, 31, of 2114 E. Esther St., Monday to three years in the State Prison at Waupun on a theft conviction.

Before ordering the term, Van Susteren noted that Johnson had a criminal record. The judge consulted the findings of the State Department of Health and Social Services, which conducted a presentence investigation before Johnson's court appearance.

Johnson took two snowmobiles and their trailer from the property of Thomas Rabideau, 2209 Riverside Drive, Little Chute, early Feb. 5, John L. Brunner, 22, 308 E. Lincoln St., Appleton, was placed on two years' probation in March for his part in the crime.

The pair was arrested by a Little Chute patrolman, who originally had stopped them for driving with a burned-out taillight. The officer testified at a preliminary hearing in March that he got "a feeling" that the machines might be stolen when he stopped them, and that later checking confirmed this.

The two had pulled the machines and trailer from the Rabideau home with Brunner's pickup truck, authorities said. The preliminary hearing revealed that Johnson apparently told Brunner that the machines were his, and that he wished them moved.

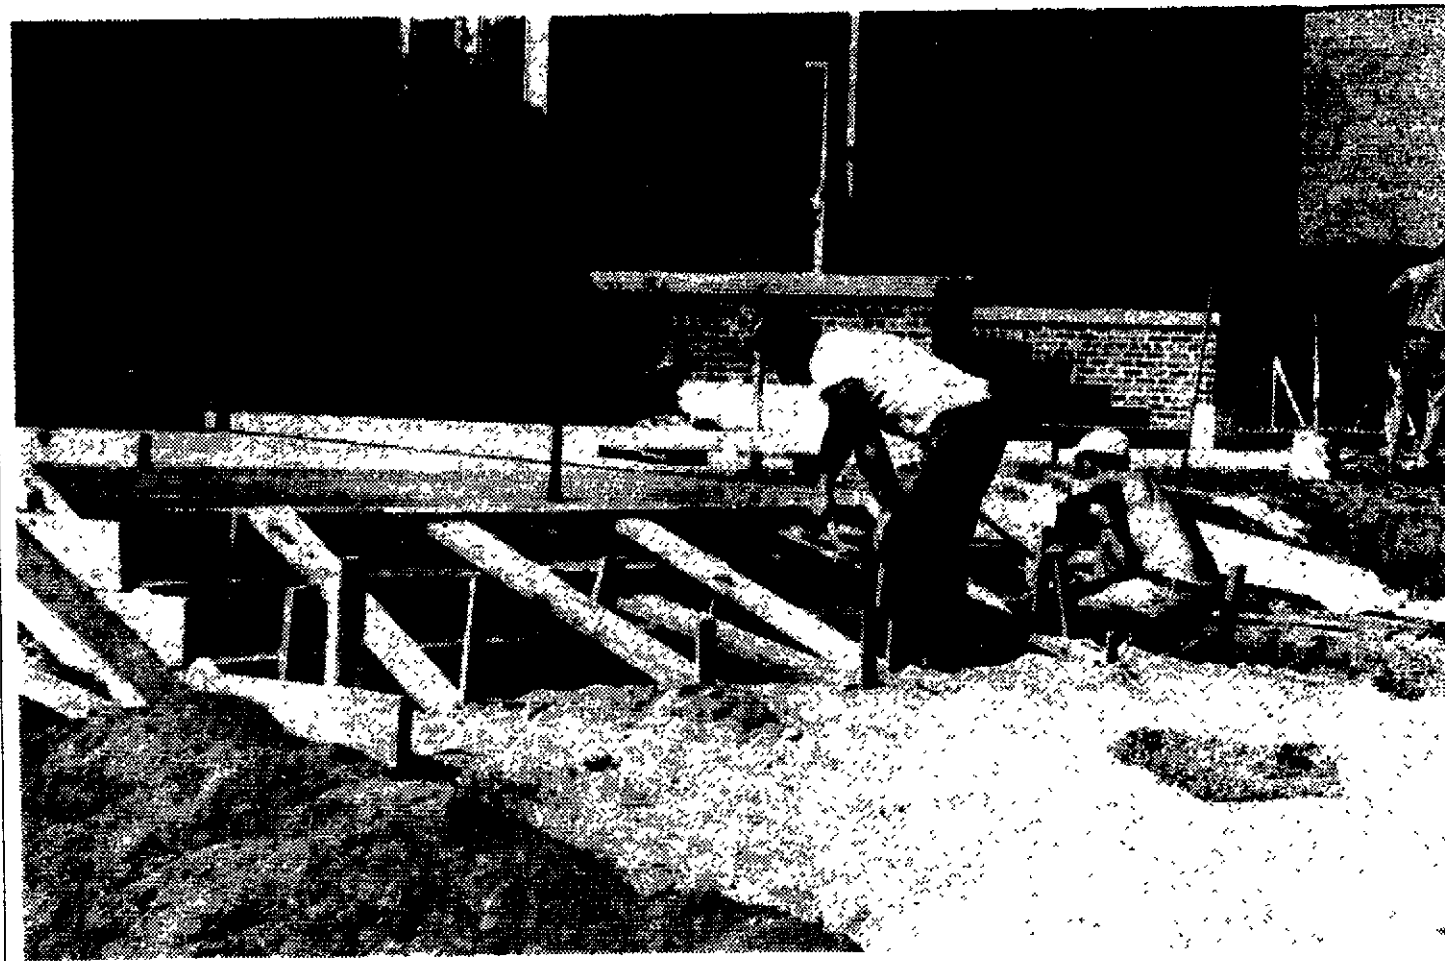

They had returned the snowmobiles and trailer to the Rabideau home before they were arrested, police said.

Steiger Questionnaire

Wiretapping Wins Voter Approval

WASHINGTON — Voter opinion in the 8th Congressional District runs highly in favor of the use of wiretapping to combat organized crime and changing the U.S. Constitution to allow for the direct election of the President.

In a poll of 29,280 district residents recently conducted by Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, 90 per cent favored wiretapping and 83 per cent favored changing the Constitution for direct election of Presidents.

Pollution Fight

Only 41 per cent, however, favored higher taxes to support an "all-out" fight against pollution.

The poll results also showed the 63 per cent felt the country's chief domestic problem was inflation, although problems like "drugs, rioting, student unrest, racial problems, poverty, pollution and immorality" also were cited, the congressman reported.

In responses to the question asking if more people would favor higher taxes to fight pollution, "many persons" said the fight is necessary, but that industrial polluters should pay the cost, Steiger said.

On military affairs in Southeast Asia, the district went along with nationwide voter opinion, and then some.

Back Nixon

On a question asking if they approve of President Nixon's handling of the Vietnam war, 66 per cent in the seven-county area said "yes."

To a question asking if they felt the U.S. should give arms and advisory support to Cambodia, 56 per cent said "yes."

In a Gallup poll conducted in July, Steiger noted, 61 per cent supported Nixon's Vietnam policy nationwide.

Men were more favorable than women in responses to these two questions, however.

Only 63 per cent of the women polled said "yes" to Nixon's conduct of the Vietnam war. Only 51 per cent favored more help for Cambodia.

Some 70 per cent of the men, however, favored the President's handling of the war, and 61 per cent of the males favored Cambodia aid and support.

On other issues, men and women were in close agreement, Steiger said.

Volunteer Army

A question on whether a volunteer army should replace the present draft system yielded 55 per cent "yes" responses.

At Manitowoc Camp 7 Migrant Laborers Charged in Stabbing

MANITOWOC — Six men and a 17-year-old boy were expected to be brought into Manitowoc County Court today on charges stemming from the fatal stabbing of a migrant worker near Two Rivers early Sunday.

Jesus Morin, 44, San Vincente, Mexico, was dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital where he was taken by car after being stabbed in a cabin at a Lakeside Packing Co. migrant workers camp.

Sheriff Donald Hillstrom said a final decision on charges to be lodged against the seven will come after he confers with Dist. Atty. Robert E. Koutnik today.

All seven persons, taken into custody shortly after the stabbing, are being held for investigation.

Hillstrom said the suspects, ages 17 to 33, are all migrant laborers.

Although Hillstrom said that no exact reason could be given for the stabbing, it appeared to be the result of "something that has been brewing there a couple of weeks." He said there had been "bad feelings" between two groups at the camp.

Morin had multiple knife wounds, but died as a result of a stab wound in the heart, authorities said.

Two of the men being held in jail here suffered minor injuries in the fight. They were treated at a hospital.

Authorities said they confiscated seven knives, including a combat-style knife, a switch blade, and a butcher knife.

Henry Miles Jr. Paints in New London

Architect Lets Loose on Canvas

BY SKIP HAMMERBERG
Post-Crescent Correspondent

NEW LONDON — Working evenings and weekends amid the organized confusion of his office, Henry Miles Jr. turns from architectural duties to his first love.

Miles is rapidly developing a reputation as one of the finest artists in the New London area. His works, done mainly in watercolor, represent scenes and activities in central Wisconsin.

"I got some award there," Miles says, adding, "but I never could figure out what it was."

Brush and Colors

Since that time he has continued spending spare moments with a brush and colors. So far this year he has entered works in Antigo, Oshkosh, and New London art shows.

At Oshkosh he placed second in the non-professional division and at New London he took first place.

Presently Miles is working on a series of Appleton scenes for the Appleton Gallery of Arts midsummer fair Sunday.

Along with his water colors, he also works in pastels, chalk and sketching. All of Miles' works are done from photos — usually black and white — or sketches.

He retains the colors of the building or scene in his mind and transfers them to the picture as he works.

In all his works Miles strives to create what he calls a wet look. "I like to see water colors that don't have too much detail, but still produce an effect," he explains.

Know When to Stop

The architect adds that the greatest difficulty with most paintings is knowing when to stop. "Too often you see a good work that has been overdone."

Miles may be a bit unique in the fact that he can carry on a conversation, watch television and paint at the same time.

brush into the paint, look at the game, paint on the picture, watch the game and then back to the paint.

He says his favorite works are those of buildings or bridges. "I guess because I'm an architect."

Lately he has been busy working on custom paintings for people who want a special work of their house or a favorite scene.

He also donated a water color of Washington Junior High School to the school and has many works hanging throughout the city.

Among his more recent works are a series of miniatures of scenes from along the river and woods. They have a very distinctive style with his "wet look" and are detailed and colorful.

Because of the demand for his paintings, Miles recently began selling works. He also undertook the project of doing custom works about that time.

Along with his own art work, Miles has been active in the formation and activities of the Wolf River Art League. The group has formed to promote the works of local artists.

Miles also is gaining a reputation as an architect. He has designed two schools, several homes and recently the United Methodist Church, all in New London.

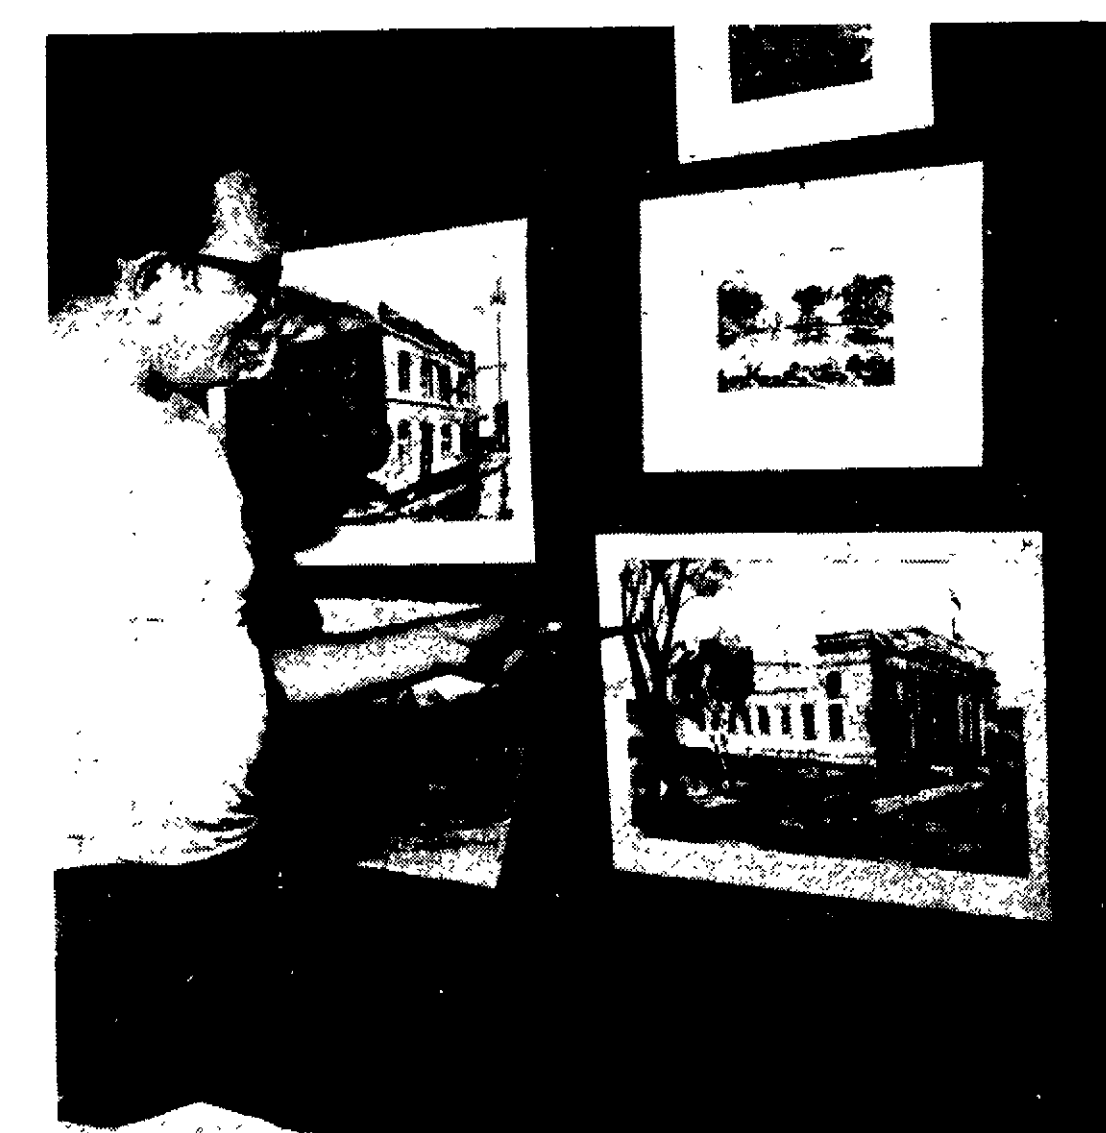

He also has designed schools and buildings throughout the state for Stuebenrauch and Associates of Sheboygan, his employer.

Family Provides Models

With his architectural duties, family responsibilities, and paintings to occupy him, Miles still has time to sit back, light his pipe and talk with visitors at his office. His crisp sense of humor, sparkling eyes, and easy going manner makes him an easy man to like.

An architect sits in the chair. But the knowledgeable visitor knows it is really the artist who signs his works "henri," a painter who is just beginning to share his talent.

Steiger Questionnaire

Wiretapping Wins Voter Approval

WASHINGTON — Voter opinion in the 6th Congressional District runs highly in favor of the use of wiretapping to combat organized crime and changing the U.S. Constitution to allow for the direct election of the President.

In a poll of 29,280 district residents recently conducted by Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, 90 per cent favored wiretapping and 83 per cent favored changing the Constitution for direct election of Presidents.

Only 41 per cent, however, favored higher taxes to support an "all-out" fight against pollution.

The poll results also showed the 63 per cent felt the country's chief domestic problem was inflation, although problems like "drugs, rioting, student unrest, racial problems, poverty, pollution and immorality" also were cited, the congressman reported.

In responses to the question asking if more people would favor higher taxes to fight pollution, "many persons" said the fight is necessary, but that industrial polluters should pay the cost, Steiger said.

On military affairs in Southeast Asia, the district went in favor of nationwide voter opinion, and then some.

Back Nixon

On a question asking if they approve of President Nixon's handling of the Vietnam war, 66 per cent in the seven-county area said "yes."

To a question asking if they felt the U.S. should give arms and advisory support to Cambodia, 56 per cent said "yes."

In a Gallup poll conducted in July, Steiger noted, 61 per cent supported Nixon's Vietnam policy nationwide.

Men were more favorable than women in responses to these two questions, however.

Only 63 per cent of the women polled said "yes" to Nixon's conduct of the Vietnam war. Only 51 per cent favored more help for Cambodia.

Some 70 per cent of the men, however, favored the President's handling of the war, and 61 per cent of the males favored Cambodia aid and support.

On other issues, men and women were in close agreement, Steiger said.

Volunteer Army

A question on whether a volunteer army should replace the present draft system yielded 55 per cent "yes" responses.

Steiger has been strongly in favor of a volunteer army to replace the draft. He recently co-sponsored bi-partisan legislation in the House of Representatives to set up a volunteer army along the lines recommended by the poll results.

Some 69 per cent of those responding to the survey felt student deferments should be ended.

Steiger said in his release of the poll results that more detailed results, breaking the figures down on a county and city basis, will be released in his August newsletter to constituents.

At Manitowoc Camp

7 Migrant Laborers Charged in Stabbing

MANITOWOC — Six men and a 17-year-old boy were expected to be brought into Manitowoc County Court today on charges stemming from the fatal stabbing of a migrant worker near Two Rivers early Sunday.

Jesus Morin, 44, San Vicente, Mexico, was dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital where he was taken by car after being stabbed in a cabin at a Lakeside Packing Co. migrant workers' camp.

Sheriff Donald Hillstrom said a final decision on charges to be lodged against the seven will come after he confers with Dist. Atty. Robert E. Koutnik today. All seven persons, taken into custody shortly after the stabbing, are being held for investigation.

Hillstrom said the suspects, ages 17 to 33, are all migrant laborers. Although Hillstrom said that no exact reason could be given for the stabbing, it appeared to be the result of "something that has been brewing there a couple of weeks." He said there had been "bad feelings" between two groups at the camp.

Morin had multiple knife wounds, but died as a result of a stab wound in the heart, authorities said. Two of the men being held in jail here suffered minor injuries lodged against the seven will come after he confers with Dist. Atty. Robert E. Koutnik today. All seven persons, taken into custody shortly after the stabbing, are being held for investigation.

Authorities said they confiscated seven knives, including a lineoleum, bread, switch blade and butcher models.

Architect Lets Loose on Canvas

BY SKIP HAMMERBERG

Post-Crescent Correspondent

NEW LONDON — Working evenings and weekends amid the organized confusion of his office, Henry Miles Jr. turns from architectural duties to his first love.

Miles is rapidly developing a reputation as one of the finest artists in the New London area. His works, done mainly in watercolor, represent scenes and activities in central Wisconsin.

He began his painting in 1952 while a student at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa. The first show he participated in was a regional art exhibit at Waupaca several years ago.

"I got some award there," Miles says, adding, "but I never could figure out what it was."

Brush and Colors Since that time he has continued spending spare moments with a brush and colors. So far this year he has entered works in Antigo, Oshkosh, and New London art shows.

At Oshkosh he placed second in the non-professional division and at New London he took first place.

Presently Miles is working on a series of Appleton scenes for the Appleton Gallery of Arts midsummer fair Sunday.

Along with his water colors, he also works in pastels, chalk and sketching. All of Miles' works are done from photos — usually black and white — or sketches.

He retains the colors of the building or scene in his mind and transfers them to the picture as he works.

In all his works Miles strives to create what he calls a wet look. "I like to see water colors that don't have too much detail, but still produce an effect," he explains.

Know When to Stop

The architect adds that the greatest difficulty with most paintings is knowing when to stop. "Too often you see a good work that has been overdone."

Miles may be a bit unique in the fact that he can carry on a conversation, watch television and paint at the same time.

While being interviewed Miles was working on a painting and watching a TV football game. His process was to dip the brush into the paint, look at the game, paint on the picture, watch the game and then back to the paint.

He says his favorite works are those of buildings or bridges, "I guess because I'm an architect."

Lately he has been busy working on custom paintings for people who want a special work of their house or a favorite scene.

He also donated a water color of a Washington Junior High School to the school and has many works hanging throughout the city.

Among his more recent works are a series of miniatures of scenes from along the river and woods. They have a very distinctive style with his "wet look" and are detailed and colorful.

Because of the demand for his paintings, Miles recently began selling works. He also undertook the project of doing custom works about that time.

Along with his own art work, Miles has been active in the formation and activities of the Wolf River Art League. The group has formed to promote the works of local artists.

Miles also is gaining a reputation as an architect. He has designed two schools, several homes and recently the United Methodist Church, all in New London.

He also has designed schools and buildings throughout the state for Stuebenrauch and Associates of Sheboygan, his employer.

Family Provides Models

A family of eight children, seven still at home, keeps Miles and his wife Joyce busy. The family also provides models for some of his works.

With his architectural duties, family responsibilities, and paintings to occupy him, Miles still has time to sit back, light his pipe and talk with visitors at his office. His crisp sense of humor, sparkling eyes, and easy going manner makes him an easy man to like.

An architect sits in the chair. But the knowledgeable visitor knows it is really the artist who signs his works "henri," a painter who is just beginning to share his talent.

Two Tigerton Officials Resign Posts

TIGERTON — Both the village president and assessor announced their resignations at a recent meeting of the Village Board.

That of Elmer D. Anderson, president for the last six years and former trustee is effective as of Sept. 1.

Assessor Herbert Krasin, former clerk and trustee, resigned as of Aug. 3.

Anderson's reasons were the press of business and personal responsibilities, and Krasin has accepted employment out of the state.

At the meeting it was announced that although a Tigerton petition for reassessment of village property for the 1969 taxes has been denied, the state has ordered a 1970 reassessment.

According to Finance Chairman Robert Hendricks, the State Office of Assessment has let bids for the job.

Trustee George Gauthier objected that the village apparently has no part in the matter except paying the assessment fees.

"If we have to pay the bill we ought to have some say about who is doing the job," he remarked. The Board decided to contact state authorities about the assessment for clarification.

Anonymous Note Calls Council 'Pusillanimous'

nounced that he had decided to stay if we matched his salary offer even though it was obvious that we couldn't offer the staff, or lessening of responsibilities which he would have had in Minnesota.

"This meant a pay increase from his present $13,800 to $16,000 pro-rated for the balance of this year and an increase to $18,000 for 1976.

"After much discussion among ourselves and with other council members we decided we should accept his offer even though it was obvious there would be a controversy," the mayor's report continues.

"The size of the increase and the fact that we had to make a rapid decision were the significant points of the controversy. There are a number of reasons why we thought Oerter was too valuable to lose at that price," Kramer explained. "Most importantly it was felt that it will cost the taxpayers much less to retain the present engineer because of the projects underway and those still on the drawing board.

Financially Unfeasible "When we compared the present situation with a new engineer learning the important local details with the knowledge of them Oerter has at his command — it did not look feasible financially to make the change.

"Oerter's salary next year, compared with what other cities our size are paying for similar services, was quite favorable." Kramer pointed out that there are many projects a reasonably progressive city undertakes which require from state agencies the seal of a registered engineer with Oerter's qualifications and know-how.

"During the first seven months of 1970, it would have cost the city of Waupaca $16,525 in fees if it had been necessary to hire a consulting firm such as other area cities do. Of this amount $12,000 is the design costs on the transmission main from well No. 5," Kramer explained.

"Ahead of us are about $3,000 in inspection fees on that main and approximately $7,500 worth of inspection work on the sewage treatment plant now under construction."

In addition, Kramer alluded to the administrative time spent by the city engineer on correspondence with the respective state and federal agencies, conferences with citizens, government officials and sales representatives.

Public Works He also enumerated the duties Oerter performs as director of public works. "Our public works director is the chief officer of the water department and manages the accounting books of both the sewage utility and the water utility," Kramer stated. "The city engineer for another nearby city has just put the city on notice at $13,000 per year and he has nothing to do with the public works department."

"Attributes such as diligence, interest, honesty and ability were, of course, also considered," Kramer stressed, as he concluded his report on the thinking of those councilmen who favored keeping Oerter.

The mayor then recounted the action taken at the Aug. 4 council meeting, which resulted in a 6-4 vote to retain Oerter. "The first formal action was taken at the public works board meeting at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 4," Kramer recounted. "The board unanimously approved recommending to council the pay increase. At the council meeting, all other business was handled except this matter."

"Then, as provided in the state statutes, a motion was made to go into executive session for the purpose of discussing the city engineer's pay and this was approved unanimously by the council."

"Ald. Julius Johnson, chairman of the board of public works made the motion, seconded by council president Robert Bergman that the city engineer's pay be increased by $183 per month for the balance of this year and to an annual rate of $18,000 for 1971."

"Discussion only, and no voting on the motion, followed," Kramer stated. "Upon completion of the discussion, the regular session was reconvened and city clerk Harriet Ward stated the motion for the benefit of spectators and the news media."

The vote was taken by roll call in random order.

"Favoring the motion were all members of the board of public works: Ald. Julius Johnson, Stanley Salter, LaVern Hanke and Everett Roloff. Also voting for the measure were Council President Robert Bergman and Finance Chairman Roman Jungers."

"Voting against the measure were Ald. Edsall Huntton, Marilyn Looker, Tom Taber and Waldemar Johnson."

"I have offered this group time on WDUX, following my Sunday broadcast to tell their views on the matter. In case they do not choose to use the time I have analyzed their viewpoints as follows: Two of them simply do not feel the city should retain Oerter at all. The other two, I feel, did not believe that such an important decision should be made this rapidly."

questioned Oerter's deserving a pay raise this large and/or didn't feel the city could afford to keep him.

"To return to my new word, I do not feel that any of the aldermen were pusillanimous," Kramer concluded. "It was a tough decision for all ten men and all took a public stand."

Green Lake Sessions Risk Before Trust In Sensitivity Labs

BY SANDRA SHACKELFORD Post-Crescent Staff Writer

GREEN LAKE — "People have pains in their relationships. They need to bare them, not bury them."

Sensitivity training can help some relationships develop, the Rev. Bob Dow feels.

He cites persons he terms work-a-holics, compulsive eaters, narcotics addicts and alcoholics as a few of the types who resort to burying pains instead of baring them.

"People find something" in sensitivity training "and they keep looking," he says. "They discover that if they risk, they trust. It sets them on a long self-learning process."

"Turned On Today" "I've seen a guy turn on today," Dow explained as he talked about laboratory sessions in human awareness he is leading at the American Baptist Assembly grounds here.

"I've seen enough lives changed. Sensitivity training affects lives where some real dramatic changes take place. Persons know who they are. They know their possibilities," he said of some participants now completing human awareness training.

Sensitivity training has been stereotyped in many persons' eyes as a naked fad of the turned-on generation. Dow feels the identification is not correct.

"What I find in Look and Life is some experimental human relation sessions they've taken and labeled the sensitivity. It's like taking the Baptist faith and saying this is Christianity."

Impressive Credentials Dow, a Baptist minister from Valley Forge, Pa., is well qualified to speak. His credentials cast a large shadow.

He attended Arcadia University, Wolfville, Nova Scotia; Colby College, Waterville, Maine; Andover-Newton School of Theology, Boston, and Boston School of Social Work. He received his masters degree in group psychotherapy from Iliff School of Theology, Denver, Colo., and currently is working toward a doctorate in social psychology.

Add the three national agencies with which he is affiliated—the American Baptist Association, the Association of Religion in Applied Behavioral Science, and the National Training Laboratory, Washington, D. C. — and you have but a brief picture of a man who is convinced of what he is doing.

Used Role-Playing What is he doing?

Dow explained his involvement in sensitivity training by first talking about counseling and group psychology, including his work in psycho-drama — using role-playing to get at people's problems.

"A lot of those people I worked with were also involved in human relations training. It began to affect my life tremendously."

He then explained the process going on here.

Anyone may apply to join the group. Applications are screened through a data collector. Dow said that "ultimately it is left up to the person."

Some screen themselves out of the program. Those who do get involved structure it themselves, setting their own goals, he said.

For the first-time layman, basic human relations and advanced human relations are offered. There also is a lab for basic organizational development and advanced organizational development.

Educational Process It is an educational process "experimenting with behavior... not psychiatry or therapy, but an educational process complemented with health and social psychology. It's a matter of learning."

Laboratory programs in human relations span two weeks. The cost is $150 plus board and room. The fees pay for transportation of training personnel, secretarial help and other expenses.

"There are a lot of religious overtones in this," Dow said. The Baptist minister added, however, "It does not take the place of a religious experience."

There are four categories of training—human relations training, organizational development, action training and training of professional trainers.

"Those not properly schooled or not schooled enough are like someone who is not a doctor yet is practicing medicine," Dow said as he talked about sensitivity leaders. "We have arrived at the point where we have to act ethically, academically and professionally."

One such norm is that "learning takes place in the here and now."

Then there is the "trust norm," an unafraid sharing of self which if it is truly trust, brings about friendship. Another facet is "openness and responsibility."

"You assume responsibility for yourself in a group," Dow said. "You are not going to cop out. The success and failure (of the lab) depends on the group."

And finally, there is "the hope of the experience." Dow explained that "instead of a win-lose situation, we want a win-win situation."

His response is, "go to hell!" In contrast, the win-win situation goes something like this: "I'm kind of angry at you," to which the husband responds, "What are you angry about?"

Not Many Break Dow explained, "In our generation there is a preoccupation I've seen not even 1 per cent (of with sex, a tremendous fear of those in the program) break, 'being exposed.' This exposure Dow said. He has, however, is not so much of the physical seen people break at common as it is of the self, the real self. social gatherings and during "Sexuality is not nudity. Sex-church sermons, he added. uality and sex are two different

Not all is friendly on the things." A person must find out human awareness front. Dow who he or she is as a man or and other proponents of the lab woman, he said.

trists are part of the training Dow feels the stereotypes of program. sensitivity training are wrong when applied to the programs here.

What good do these laboratories have on those attending? "It helps people receive? feed back? about their behavior. They can get a picture of how they are being read by others, what we call the actual self," Dow said.

New Ways of Relating The value is that many people find new ways of relating with other people. What once was a mediocre relationship can become a very exciting, alive type of relationship... a very creative kind of thing," Dow claimed.

Late Registration Set For Kimberly Schools KIMBERLY — All school buildings will be open Monday for late registration, according to Supt. of Schools Ray Hamann. Parents are urged to register their children by Aug. 28 for the student-teacher orientation program.

South Pacific Invaded By Go-Go Americans

BY ART BUCHWALD

TAHITI — There have been two explosions in the South Pacific recently. One is the French atomic bomb and the other is the tourist invasion of Polynesia. It is predicted that while the fallout from the former will blow away, the fallout from the tourist explosion will be around for centuries to come.

Tahiti and the other islands in the South Pacific are caught between cultures. The airplane has made it possible

No one is exactly sure when the 14th of July will be over out here, though some hotel owners, whose help has not come back yet, are hopeful everyone will be at work by Christmas.

In order to enjoy the islands you must understand the thinking of the Tahitians.

The American says "Please, I must have breakfast immediately because I have to catch a plane for Pago Pago."

"Yes, sir," the Tahitian says. But he thinks, "I have already had breakfast and besides I do not have a plane to catch, so why is he bothering me with his problem?"

Ten minutes later the American says, "Waiter, I must have breakfast now!"

"Yes, sir," the Tahitian says. But he thinks to himself "If I do not give him his breakfast, perhaps the French manager will fire me and then I can go fishing in the lagoon."

Fifteen minutes later a fuming American says, "See here, I have been waiting for breakfast for 25 minutes. I haven't even had coffee. I have five countries to see in six days. When I get back to the United States I will tell all my friends not to come to Tahiti."

"Yes, sir," the Tahitian says, wiping the counter. But he thinks, "If he would only keep his promise, then this hotel would close, and I could sleep with my payaya all day long."

The tourist says sternly, "Your economy depends on tourism, and you will never prosper and become rich if you don't learn that tourists like to be served fast."

Buchwald

to fly to Tahiti in a matter of hours. The only ones who aren't awed by this are the Tahitians. They don't know who designed the 707 jet but they'd just as soon he'd drown in the nearest atoll.

For hundreds and hundreds of years Tahitians have set their own pace, which is somewhat slower than that of Americans and Europeans.

To cite an example, as of this writing, Tahiti is still celebrating Bastille Day, which took place on the 14th of July.

"I know," the Tahitian nods sadly. But he thinks to himself, "Who wants to become rich if it makes you so nervous?"

"Don't get me wrong," the tourist says. "I admire your life style. But one must get with the 20th century. You can't just dilly-dally all day long. You have to go, go, go."

"Thank you," the Tahitian says. But he thinks, "I wouldn't have to put up with all this garbage if I had gone canoeing with Fredo this morning."

A half hour later the American is now steaming and shouting for the French manager, who is also steaming and yelling.

The Tahitian smiles at both of them and thinks to himself sadly, "I would hate to be a tourist in Tahiti because it's almost impossible to get anything to eat."

King Friends Deny Claim of FBI Pressure

Time Account of Extramarital Affairs Called Totally False

NEW YORK (AP) — Three associates of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his widow have taken issue with a Time magazine account of a 1964 meeting between King and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The three colleagues of the slain civil rights worker branded as "totally false" Time's report that Hoover confronted King with wiretaps revealing King's alleged extramarital activities.

Coretta S. King said in a statement Monday from Atlanta that the Time story "does not correspond" with what her husband told her.

Time, in discussing author John Williams' new book about King, "The King God Didn't Save," said that Hoover "lectured" King on his morals and suggested he tone down his criticism of the FBI.

Abernathy's Statement

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; the Rev. Andrew Young and the Rev. Walter E. Fauntroy said in a joint statement Monday:

"All three of us were present during the entire discussion and at no point did Mr. Hoover lecture Dr. King or even comment on his personal life. . . . Time magazine discredits itself in seeking to throw mud on a man admired and loved by millions, black and white. It discredits itself in stooping to sensationalism through fiction and irresponsibility."

A spokesman for Time, commenting on the statements, said:

Time's Stand

"A careful reading of Time's article should make quite clear the magazine's admiration for Dr. King's work—for example, the observations that Dr. King's leadership brought conscience and cohesion to the cause of black equality and that he was the catalyst in the formation of a truly national civil rights movement."

"As for the facts in the article, Time stands by its reporting."

In Chicago, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, national director of the SCLC's Operation Breadbasket, charted the FBI with "intentional defamation of character" in making the tapes.

"Mr. Hoover has stooped to the lowest rungs of viciousness and maliciousness in his underhanded dissemination of information regarding a deceased man," Jackson told a news conference.

Time quoted Williams as saying that the FBI began tapping King's telephone and bugging his hotel rooms in 1963, and while uncovering no evidence of subversion it "did turn up an astonishing amount of information about King's extensive and vigorous sexual activities."

Defense Team Splitting at Manson Trial

Counsels Accuse Kanarek of Trying To Dump Women

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A rift appears to be developing in the defense team in the Sharon Tate murder trial. Three lawyers have accused Charles M. Manson's attorney of trying to "dump" three women codefendants to help Manson's case.

Manson, the shaggy-haired clan leader accused of ordering the women to kill Miss Tate and six others, joined the attack Monday on his own attorney, Irving Kanarek.

"I object to my attorney," Manson told the judge. "He's not speaking for me."

The complaints about Kanarek came during his sixth day of cross-examination of the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, who Monday was granted immunity from prosecution. He hammered away at details of the night a year ago when the beautiful actress and four others were slain at her Bel Air mansion.

Other attorneys said the testimony was repetitious. They objected particularly to accounts of the roles of two women defendants in the killings.

Paul Fitzgerald objected successfully six times to Kanarek's questions concerning his client, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and vehemently opposed introduction into evidence of a picture of the bloody body of one victim.

"The picture is prejudicial and inflammatory," Fitzgerald said. The judge ruled the picture would not be admitted until Kanarek laid a proper foundation with questioning. Kanarek dropped the subject.

Daye Shinn, representing Susan Atkins, 21, objected to a question eliciting testimony about a conversation Mrs. Kasabian said she had with Miss Atkins.

Later, Ronald Hughes, attorney for Leslie Van Houten, 20, told newsmen he felt Kanarek was hurting the defense case with his cross-examination.

"He's turned her from an incredible witness into a credible witness," said Hughes. "He's hurting us by getting into the crime. I keep asking him to stop."

He sort of ignores me." Kanarek told newsmen: "In this type of case a lawyer can represent only one litigant. Conflicts arise. An answer to a question may hurt one party and help another. Reasonable minds can differ at a trial."

Fitzgerald said the original defense plan was to proceed on the theory that all four defendants are innocent and dependent upon one another in their defense. Kanarek has "slipped from the fold," he said. Fitzgerald added that Kanarek possibly was doing a good job for his client but damaging the case of the women.

The squabble among attorneys came after the judge granted a defense request that Mrs. Kasabian be granted her promised immunity from prosecution. The defense attorneys said they felt once the grant was final she could recant her testimony if she wished without fear of retribution.

Kanarek again bolted from the pack, asking for a mistrial on the ground that the immunity should have been formalized before Mrs. Kasabian took the witness stand two weeks ago.

Superior Court Judge Charles Older denied the motion saying: "I believe that when a witness testifies under the conditions Mrs. Kasabian has in this case she has immunity as a matter of law. The people have presented the petition for immunity and I have signed it."
